

It'll be Newhouse and Cimaglia for three years

O'Connell, Kane, and Duffy win seats on the School Committee

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Michael Newhouse and Louis Cimaglia came out on top in the town's recent selectmen race, toppling Suzanne Sullivan's incumbency and denying Frank West's hopes for a return to the board.

Voter turnout vastly improved this year over recent years, with 3,550 voters - representing 24 percent of Wilmington's 14,899 registered voters - visiting the polls. It was the highest turnout since 3,794 voters showed up in 2003. The 2006 election saw only 2,278 voters, or 16 percent of the total, casting ballots.

Newhouse retained his seat with a total of 1,925 votes, and continues to hold the distinction of topping the ticket each time he has run for a spot on the Board of Selectmen. He carried Precincts 1, 2, and 6, but fell short in Precinct 3; behind Cimaglia by 26 votes, in Precinct 4; behind Cimaglia by 39 votes and behind Sullivan by 15 votes, and in Precinct 5; behind Cimaglia by 11 votes. Precincts 1 and 2 voted at the Boutwell School. Precincts 3 and 4 voted at the Wildwood Street School. Precinct 5 voted at Town Hall.

"Not surprisingly, all of the candidates ran a hard-fought race, and for that I congratulate them," Newhouse said.

Questions surround local man's death

No cause yet determined for death in just 6-feet of water

GLOUCESTER - A Wilmington man's life was lost on Sunday in a scuba diving incident that still has police baffled.

David Lenardis, 43, of Wilmington, was separated from his three companions during a recreational dive in Gloucester on Sunday morning. His friends contacted emergency personnel when he did not join them on the beach, as planned, after being separated for only about 10 minutes. Gloucester firefighters, police, the Harbormaster, and the Coast Guard arrived just before 11:00 a.m. and assisted in the search.

Lenardis was found in just 6-feet of water about 30-yards off of Niles Beach and was unresponsive. He was still wearing his breathing apparatus. Emergency crews attempted to resuscitate him and he was transported to a nearby hospital.

He was pronounced dead at Addison Gilbert Hospital in Gloucester shortly before 1:00 p.m.

The incident is being investigated by State Police. Police declined to comment on whether there was a malfunction of Lenardis' breathing apparatus or speculate on the cause of death until the investigation is concluded.

Security threats in Tewksbury schools

Three incidents in two days

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY - The School Department took a beating this week with three incidents at two schools over two school days. Tewksbury headlined the local broadcast news over the weekend and again on Monday with reports of threatening messages at the high school and Wynn Middle School and the discovery of a "chemically reactive device" found at the high school.

Students went back to school on Monday with a police presence and a ban on bags and backpacks. Students at the Wynn went to school Tuesday with a police presence as well.

In a time when school violence pervades the media and minds of parents and students alike, Tewksbury's recent experiences speak to the value of preparation and organization.

Police and School administration personnel made it clear that once the perpetrators of

A Mother's Love is food on the table

Dine at participating restaurants to make Mother's Day extra special for those in need

By MARCY RAGUCCI

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Food Pantry and the Tewksbury Food Pantry are inviting residents to celebrate Mother's Day this year by taking part in an event called "A Mother's Love - Food on the Table." Participation can be as easy as eating at a local restaurant.

Traditionally, one expression of a mother's love is putting food on the table for her family. While usually intended to nurture a child's body and help them grow healthy and strong, food can often supply more than just nutritional value. Many adults still reminisce about those special meals prepared with loving hands by their mother. Most mothers will fondly recall taking pride in making favorite dishes for their children, and also about seeing their children appreciating those meals and yummy treats.

Unfortunately, there are far too many mothers who will not have the luxury of such memories in years to come because of financial constraints. Imagine the frustration and the sadness experienced, despite their best efforts to put food on the table for their children each and every night. This Mother's Day, a number of local restaurants have joined together to create a way for their patrons to make a difference in the lives of many of those families - especially the mothers. It won't take much to put a smile on the faces of lots of mothers and you can help make that happen through either the Wilmington or the Tewksbury Food Pantry.

Hunger happens every day, and not just to the homeless. It happens to your neighbor. It happens to that adorable child who sits next to your child in school. It happens to that kind elderly lady down the block who has to choose medicine over a nice hot meal. It happens to the mother or father who lost their job and barely has enough money to survive. It happens to ordinary people who are having a difficult time making ends meet. It happens right here in your community. Fortunately, when it does happen, a local food pantry is usually there to offer assistance. But the problem today is that it is happening to a record number of people and every food pantry is strapped for enough food and money to help all the families needing assistance.

A food pantry operates through kindness - the kindness of volunteers, the kindness of people who donate food items, and the kindness of individuals and businesses that care enough to donate money to keep the food pantry operating and helping our friends and neighbors.

Many volunteers encounter more than they bargained for when they spend time at a food

Mindfulness Meditation

WILMINGTON - Stress! Frustration! Agitation! Rushing through life has become an American way of life - perhaps your way of life. Living at such a hectic pace wears away at our physical and emotional health, our creativity, and our relationships.

The big question is: "How do we stop?" Mindfulness Meditation could be the answer. Through it, you may become more attentive to your own thoughts and their relationship to both your physical and emotional well-being. Such awareness training has proven effective in managing stress and coping with difficult emotions, pain, and illness.

For those interested in learning more about this stress reduction technique and exploring whether it works for them in slowing down the pace of their lives, the Wilmington Family Counseling Service is offering a Mindfulness Meditation Workshop. The workshop will be held on Thursday nights starting on May 17 for 6 consecutive weeks from 7:15-8:45 pm. Each session will include instruction, guided meditation practice, and discussion. Participants may self-pay or use their health insurance.

The workshop will be lead by Barney Jordan, Ph.D., a clinical psychologist, meditation teacher, and organizational consultant. For the past decade he has been on the faculty at Harvard Medical School and a meditation instructor at MIT. A former resident of the Cambridge Insight Meditation Center, he also has extensive contemplative practice experience in both the Buddhist and Christian traditions. He teaches mindfulness meditation and stress reduction throughout New England. His clients have included IBM, GTE, Lotus, and Sloan.

To register for the workshop, please call the Wilmington Family Counseling Service by May 14 at 978-658-9889.

Passport Night at Wilmington Town Clerk's office

WILMINGTON - The Town Clerk's office will remain open until 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, May 9, 2007 to process passports. You will need to bring a long form birth certificate or expired passport, two passport pictures (CVS, Walgreen's $7.99), and two checks. The processing of Passports at this time is taking up to 10-12 weeks. Please plan early for your summer or fall travel to avoid extra costs. For more information, please call the Town Clerk's office 978-658-2030.

The Gloucester Hornpipe and Clog Society to play in Wilmington

WILMINGTON - The Sarah D. J. Carter Fund will host the Gloucester Hornpipe and Clog Society on Friday evening, May 11, 2007, at the Wilmington Middle School, at 7:30 p.m.

A mainstay of the New England coffeehouse scene since 1975 the G.H. & C.S. band captivates listeners of all ages with a downeast Yankee mix of Celtic, colonial, and maritime music. Hands-on working chanteys, shipboard fife and drum renditions and immigrant ballads of life at sea inspire instant participation. Authentic instruments and materials and song writing from primary research make the G.H. & C.S. a standout for historic entertainment.

Band members are experts with the flute, tinwhistle, fife, dulcimer, guitar and voice. In addition, David "Doc" Rosen, co-founder of the band, is a master of Irish bodhran, spoons and bones and his hand-carved pogocello, never fails to intrigue. The pogocello, descended from the Swedish "Devil's fiddle," eastern European polka percussion sticks and 18th and 19th century shipboard fufu bands, is not to be missed.

John Berger's vigorous fiddling sets hearts a-thumping, his old-time bango ring's with joy, and he can play anything on guitar from ragtime to hornpipes. Nancy Koch is mistress of the piano accordion. She also plays the guitar, mandolin and tinwhistle, and creates lovely harmonies on background vocals.

Lynn Noel's clear, powerful voice is equally at home on ballads and close harmony. She also plays the mountain dulcimer, guitar and percussion. Singer and guitarist Diane Taraz brings velvety vocals back to the band. Her songwriting explores New England's fascinating history with a special focus on women.

The Gloucester Hornpipe & Clog Society's performance with an affectionate feel for the music promises to be one of the most popular shows ever presented by the Sarah D. J. Carter Committee. With free admission for all Wilmington residents and friends of all ages be sure to mark your calendar for 7:30 p.m. on May 11th. The Wilmington Middle School is located off Shawsheen Avenue on Carter Lane.

Miceli gets $200,000 amendment for Tewksbury Senior Center

BOSTON - State Representative James R. Miceli (D -

Tewksbury/Wilmington) got another crucial amendment passed during the week-long House of Representatives Fiscal Year 2008 budget debates. This is in addition to Miceli's $150,000 amendment passed earlier last week to continue the Wilmington cancer study currently being conducted.

This second amendment provides $200,000 for costs associated with the Tewksbury Senior Center's ongoing expansion project on Chandler Street. Last year, Miceli also worked tirelessly with Chairman DeLeo of the House Committee on Ways and Means to get the Senior Center $400,000 when the project was in dire need of additional funding.

"Elderly issues have always been, and always will be, a top priority for me. The newly expanded and renovated senior center is going to be a phenomenal facility that will enrich and enhance the lives of our seniors. I eagerly anticipate its completion and what the center will offer for programs, resources, and activities," said Miceli.

KIDDIE TAX REACHES FURTHER

Until recently, the "kiddie tax" rules stopped on the child's 14th birthday. A child's investment income was taxed at his parents' rate until that time. Now, in a retroactive change that covers both 2006 and 2007, the kiddie tax applies until the child is 18.

For most families, this is no problem; a child's low investment income usually escapes taxation. The first $850 is tax-free, and the next $850 is taxed at the child's rate, probably 10 percent for interest income and 5 percent for long-term capital gains.

Planning to give the youngster appreciated stock to sell for tuition? Fine idea, if he or she waits until turning 18 to sell. (Especially good for 2008, 2009 and 2010, when capital gains are tax-free for those in the two lowest income-tax brackets.)

Another option is to cash out a custodial account and move the money into a 529 plan. If you use the custodial account for qualified educational expenses, there's no federal tax on the funds.

Saving for college? We'll help you find the tax-advantaged way to do it at:

Miceli gets $200,000 amendment for Tewksbury Senior Center

BOSTON - State Representative James R. Miceli (D -

Tewksbury/Wilmington) got another crucial amendment passed during the week-long House of Representatives Fiscal Year 2008 budget debates. This is in addition to Miceli's $150,000 amendment passed earlier last week to continue the Wilmington cancer study currently being conducted.

This second amendment provides $200,000 for costs associated with the Tewksbury Senior Center's ongoing expansion project on Chandler Street. Last year, Miceli also worked tirelessly with Chairman DeLeo of the House Committee on Ways and Means to get the Senior Center $400,000 when the project was in dire need of additional funding.

"Elderly issues have always been, and always will be, a top priority for me. The newly expanded and renovated senior center is going to be a phenomenal facility that will enrich and enhance the lives of our seniors. I eagerly anticipate its completion and what the center will offer for programs, resources, and activities," said Miceli.

Letters to the editor

Almost struck down

Dear Editor,
This is to the driver of the vehicle who nearly hit me and my baby daughter Monday April 30th at the corner of 38 and 62 as we crossed route 38. I had a white walk light, and you had a red arrow. I know you saw it because you initially stopped and looked, but your neck was craned so far to the left as you eased out into the intersection that I bet you never even saw us. You gunned to make the turn without even looking to the right. Thank God I was looking at you. I am purposely omitting the make and model of the car because I am sure many readers turn right on that very red arrow without giving it a thought.

Traffic violators aside, why on earth isn't there a four-way cross walk at that intersection? The cross walk where I was nearly hit is all but blind to the motorists traveling over the Miceli bridge (62 East), and turning onto 38 South. I would never use that intersection if I could legally and safely cross 62 before 38, and cross 38 on the other side where the sight lines are measurably better. Until that day comes, please open your eyes, take your cell phone away from your ear, and consider that a mother might be strolling her new born baby across the street at the very moment you decide the laws do not apply to you.

Dear Editor,
I take this opportunity to thank my family, friends and the voters who supported me in the Selectman election. I would also like to congratulate both Lou Cimaglia and Mike Newhouse on their election. My hope is that they will work on behalf of the community and that both will listen and serve the needs of the residents of our town.

Sullivan thanks voters

Dear Editor,
I wish to thank all the residents who took the time to vote in last Saturday's election and participate in the democratic process that makes our country great. It was a good turnout. I would also like to sincerely extend my congratulations to Mr. Cimaglia and Mr. Newhouse on their victories. It was a very close election. I wish you the best of luck and ask that you not forget that you now represent ALL the residents.

I want to thank those who supported me with a vote, and especially those who worked hard on my campaign. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for your support. Many people are anxious to know what will I do now. Although I cannot predict the future, or commit to any future runs at this time, I can say this: the numbers show that my voice speaks for many Wilmington residents. The platform for my voice may have changed, whether temporarily or otherwise, but I will still be a voice when it is needed and will continue to do whatever I can to improve and protect our quality of life. I have a strong sense of community, and that will not change. So to all those who worked on my campaign, you are all awesome. And to those who supported me with a vote, do not despair. I am still here.

Thank you to all once again who participated in whatever capacity in the election.

Betsy's Best Bets

Loopy Groupy Girl

Even the woodpecker owes his success to the fact that he uses his head and keeps pecking away until he finishes the job he started. (Coleman Cox)

At least twenty years ago I made a list of entertainers, writers and others that I was dying to see in person - live. Everyone on this "personal devotee list" was somewhat obscure - no big names. Most had dropped off the map from what I could tell. The odds were against me that any of them would re-appear and that I would know.

I've always read the Globe everyday, looked through the Calendar section on Thursdays, picked up the Phoenix now and then, Boston Magazine, the Improper Bostonian and any of the City neighborhood weeklies whenever I could. There was never a deliberate act of "searching" but subconsciously my antenna must have been up because, as of this month, I've checked off every one of the seventeen or so names on my original list.

My eyes popped out of my head one morning, several years back, when I thought I saw the name of Lavern Baker in very small print. I adjusted my glasses and pushed the paper out a bit and did a second take. Since her hit record "I Cried A Tear" in the late 50s, early 60s, Lavern Baker had vanished from the music world. As a kid I was crazy over Lavern Baker. She was one of my very favorite vocalists of that time. It turns out she had been living in the Philippines, working at a USO club on a U.S. Army base. I was lucky enough to see Lavern Baker live several times before she passed away, always in a low-end club, she was no super star. But the big, heavy voice was better than ever and her sassy style and earthiness could still grab the audience and stir-up all those feelings that matched the words to the song she was singing. I checked her off my list.

Shirley Horn, Bobby Short and Joe Williams fell into the category of "sophisticated jazz." None were main stream or widely popular. Their music was played occasionally on WGBH or college radio like Harvard, Emerson and MIT. I can't say who I loved the most - I played all three at home all the time. I knew Bobby Short played only at the Club Carlisle in New York City and Shirley Horn rarely left the D.C. area. I knew nothing about Joe Williams. Thanks to Music America, an afternoon radio show that aired daily on WBGH for years (I was a faithful listener), I caught an interview between Ron Della Chiesa and Joe Williams. I ran to the phone to find out where Williams was playing. Around that same time, both Bobby Short and Shirley Horn left their long time home base to perform every so often in Boston at Scullers Jazz Club. Making up for lost time, I managed to see every show, every time they came to Boston. I checked them off my list.

Phoebe Snow, Dave Bromberg and Ritchie Havens came out of Greenwich Village in the early 1960s. None made the big time but they had their loyal followers, and probably still do, including me. Each had their own distinctive voice and style and panache but not much overall appeal to the "Joe Average" American. For me, I couldn't get enough. I have all of their recordings, which I must say isn't a very big collection. I've seen Bromberg, Snow and Havens only once. All three lived up to my expectations. I checked them off my list.

I never dreamed that I would actually find myself sitting in front of Lawrence Ferlinghetti, the bohemian "pre-beat" poet, or May Sarton, the deep and gifted author and poet, both having been as much as canonized in my eyes. At Harvard, about fifteen years ago, when May Sarton, at 80, slowly approached the podium, you could hear a pin drop. As she read in her strong and stirring voice I'm sure there wasn't a dry eye in the house. Just last April at Harvard again, I held my breath waiting to hear Ferlinghetti read "Are There Not Still Fireflies" and "History of the Airplane." Whenever I have to dig around in my desk, I find myself reading these two profound, yet disturbing poems. Still, to hear Ferlinghetti read aloud in his distinctive voice was enough to make my heart stop. I checked both off my list.

Also on my list were dancing master Rudolf Nureyev, intellectual Gore Vidal, blues legend BB King, velvet voice Mel Torme and my all time favorite performer who ever walked on earth - Van Morrison. None were unknown, but the likelihood of seeing them was slim I thought. Call it luck, perseverance, ESP - who knows. All are checked off my list.

The biggest surprise of all had to be the day I spotted a good-sized ad for Charles Aznavour, his Farewell Tour, at the Opera House. My jaw dropped! Disciple might be too strong a word but I had idolized the French cabaret singer since my teen years. The truth is, I had given up on ever finding him. He would be in his 80s if he was still around. Chances were he would not be performing. Well. Talk about a thrill. Aznavour was magic on stage - looked and acted as if he was in the prime of his life. His voice was perfect, filled with the same impassioned emotion and energy that I had been so drawn to for all my years of "fandom." And the frosting on the cake was to be inside the newly restored Opera House, a copy of the Paris Opera House, in all its history and glory and dazzle. I checked him off my list.

So, are you still with me? Last but not least, two weeks ago, in the Bookings part of the "Ideas" section of the Sunday Globe, Chet Raymo was listed. Over the past twenty years, I don't think I ever missed reading "Science Musings," the column that Raymo wrote for the Boston Globe. Raymo is a scientist but his gift for writing makes him a writer first in my mind. His ability to blend science, nature, literature and philosophy invariably would provoke some deep thinking on my part. I would cut out his best columns, make copies, and mail them off to everyone. Regularly I take out my favorites and re-read them and ponder Raymo's words all over again. Seeing him up close in person was mesmerizing. To begin with, Raymo is strikingly handsome, dressed all in black, deep tan from recently returning from an island retreat. When he read from his latest book his voice was deep and rich and dramatic. I was in heaven. I checked him off my list.

Now you know, don't you ... you must have guessed by now that I've started a new list - so far with only one name. Call it what you want, obsession or infatuation. Bewitched? It's hard to unhitch, my habit I admit, I can't quit.

I would like to extend my thanks to the voters of Tewksbury for re-electing me to their School Committee. My congratulations to Dennis Peterson on his re-election, and to Jonathan Ciampa on his strong showing.

I want to thank my many supporters who helped make my re-election possible. I especially want to thank my wife Maura and my sons Jefferson, Matthew, and Benjamin, who agreed to give up their husband and father to the school system for another term.

I assure the residents of Tewksbury that I will do my best to properly represent you, your children, and the Tewksbury School System. I look forward to working with the residents, educators, town officials, and children of Tewksbury for the next three years.

Dear Editor:

THANK YOU to every single resident who placed their trust in me and voted for me last Saturday. You have given me a unique opportunity to serve on the Board of Selectmen in the town I love so dearly. To the residents who did not vote for me, I promise to do my best to earn that vote in the future.

Congratulations to Mike Newhouse on winning another term as selectman. I look forward to effectively and professionally working with you on the issues facing our town.

I would also like to thank Suzanne Sullivan and Frank West for running great campaigns.

I would be remiss if I did not thank all the people who worked so very hard on my campaign. I'm very proud of the hard work that my committee did, and I'm proud of the positive and honest campaign we ran.

Most of all I must thank my wife Marion and my children Louie, Nick and Brittany. Without their undying support, I would not have been able to run a lawnmower, never mind a political race. I love you, and I am a very lucky man.

Thank you.

Proud Parents

This past weekend, a group of "Destination Mississippi" volunteers left from the United Methodist Church in Wilmington, Mass to help the victims of the Katrina hurricane. Our daughter Kathleen (Barnes) Medugno is one of these special people. We are proud of you Kathy, our prayers go out to all for your safety.

Your Two Cents...

I didn't vote for Frank West, but I have gained respect for him. He showed up at Town Hall to await the results and graciously congratulated the winners. There is such a thing as class in politics and grace in defeat. Nice job Frank.

Wilmington

Wilmington voters have spoken and the message is clear: it is far better to light a candle than curse the darkness. Maybe now we can actually resolve our remaining environmental challenges, instead of having them used over and over again for political purposes, hurting the town both legally and financially.

Wilmington

An idea how towns can fill their coffers. Stop and fine the drivers turning right on a red ARROW especially at the junctions of Main and Burlington Ave/ Church Sts. At least twice a month I am cut off trying to take a left off of Church ST. with a green arrow.

Wilmington

(editor's note: The Town Crier investigated and reported on this issue several years ago. A right turn is permitted on a red arrow, after coming to a complete stop AND provided it is safe to do so.)

Czech Yourself

by Tina Fabiano

There is one thing in Prague that never fails to strike me senseless every time it comes into my sight. The view of the city from atop the castle hill is arresting. No matter how much of a rush I'm in to get to class or anywhere else, I always have time to stop and look out over all the red tiled roofs, spot all the gothic spires on the cathedrals, and count the distant bridges on the Vltava River. When I stand at this point overlooking this city that I've called home for the last four months, I always wonder what brought me here and why. Why not Italy? Why not Ireland? Why the Czech Republic?

I'm pretty sure my grandfather, William Dunlevy of Tewksbury, was thinking the same thing when he wound up in Czechoslovakia in June of 1945.

For me, coming to the Czech Republic was experimental, done on a whim, and my own choice. As a 21-year-old "studying" abroad I have done everything but homework. I've strapped myself to a random Czech man and jumped out of a helicopter; I've spent excessive amounts of money on Prague's nightlife; I've skipped classes to wander around the Charles Bridge when the temperature broke 70. But for the only other member of my family to spend extensive time overseas, my grandfather's tenure in Europe was quite different than my own.

At 17 years old, my grandfather enlisted in the Army and reported to active duty at the age of 18 on December 3, 1943. He was a forward observer and radio operator in the Army's 94th Division, 301st Infantry Regiment, Cannon Company. His job was to direct 105mm artillery fire and radio back the position of the enemy.

While I landed in Europe after a virtually empty and comfortable plane ride, my grandfather landed at Utah Beach, over half a century earlier, after a long, sweaty, and crowded ride across the Atlantic on the D Deck of the Queen Elizabeth I.

He headed to the German controlled sub ports of St. Nazaire and Lorient in France and made sure the Germans stayed put, while I went on a whirlwind tour of London and Munich.

Shortly after this, my grandfather moved onto the Battle of the Bulge and was then involved in heavy fighting along the Germans' seriously fortified Siegfried Line. Next, he was sent to an industrial area of Germany called the Ruhr where the Allies were creating a campaign to surround and capture the Ruhr Area. It amazes me that all of this took place during the time he was 18, 19, and 20. At 21, the only battles I have fought have been with my hotplate. Between Auschwitz, Lidice, Berlin, Terezin, and countless other towns and cities I've been in the past few months, I've seen quite a few sights regarding World War II. I know the eerie feeling I get when I see these places rebuilt and decorated with cryptic memorials signifying a sort of emptiness, but how did my grandfather feel to see these places destroyed?

It was on a pass in Paris on May 9, 1945, that my grandfather was standing under the Arc de Triomphe watching the C-47s drop flairs along the Champs-Élysées signaling that the war had ended, but he had one last stop: Czechoslovakia. He would remain in the area of Bohemia that was occupied by the Army until December of 1945.

It's interesting how things work out. One weekend in March I went to a small town two hours from Prague called Cesky Krumlov. To put it simply, it's gorgeous: narrow winding streets lined with quaint shops and charming restaurants; everywhere you look is like looking into a living postcard. While everyone else browsed around the square in the center of the village waiting to go home, I stood quietly off to the side for a few moments. Sixty-two years ago, my grandfather stood in the same spot. The noblest thing I did in Cesky Krumlov was give a decent tip where I ate; on the other hand, my grandfather, Private William Dunlevy, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal "for meritorious achievement in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States in France and Germany."

It's hard to put into words how I felt, but the best I can do is say that it was a feeling of overwhelming pride. To stand where my grandfather was decorated is something I never anticipated doing, but then again, who would ever imagine their granddaughter standing in that same place, either? I imagined him standing at attention among his fellow troops receiving his award and wondering, how can I ever live up to that? And what can I even report back to him about it when I return home other than I was rendered speechless for a Tewksbury made news all over Massachusetts with the antics of three (give or take) students writing threatening messages and smashing a stripped down D-Cell Alkaline battery to smithereens. Moreover, while administration, police, faculty, students, firefighters, bus-drivers and staff distinguished themselves with quick response times, appropriate action, and an enormous effort to communicate with families, the real news in Tewksbury is not about what happened at school. But, it's about to be.

Every year the budget process represents, to I suspect many residents, a boring footnote in springtime activities. It is tedious, mind numbing in complexity, and regularly produces the same results: months of dire warning, panics, arguments on town floor, and then, often, a surprise influx of money.

Fortnight in Review

by Jayne W. Miller

This week

Not this year. Every single person that's involved with the budget that I've spoken with at various school committee meetings, selectmen meetings, finance committee meetings, and Town-wide budget subcommittee meetings agrees that for Fiscal year 2008 Tewksbury is in trouble to the tune of $3.5 million. Out of a $77 Million budget, $3.5 seems like a drop in the bucket. However, for a town that has cut back new growth, and a school department that has developed an unfortunate talent for reductions after four years of forced cuts, well there is not much left.

Which brings us to a somewhat perplexing question raised by quite a few folks involved in the budget process: why do we continually hit the essential services, public safety and schools, and leave non-essential services practically alone? The police department will likely have to cut 4-5 officers, the fire department may have to close a station for all or part of a year, and the school department is looking to cut around 30 teachers and staff.

Cuts like these affect public safety by significantly reducing response times. If the town loses an ambulance and the remaining crew is in south Tewksbury, who will answer the call in north Tewksbury?

What about the burgeoning drug trafficking in town? Already an estimated four officers, according to Chief Donovan, under staff the police department. How do we handle school threats appropriately, keep the drug dealers on the run, or stop bank robberies when we do not have enough smart and capable men and women wearing our uniforms and watching our backs?

With all these cuts, why is the library safe? Why the Senior center? Why the Recreation department? Sure, those departments are all having their budgets cut too, but the library is only cutting one part time employee, one teenager that shelves books, and not staffing the Assistant Director position. I use the library often and I respect the people that work there and value the service they offer, but the library is not a golden goose we cannot touch. I am not alone; there is real dissent among the groups of people working on these budget reductions about what to cut and why.

John Mackey said it best, that if we keep cutting the biggest departments soon we are going to cannibalize essential services. Before we throw education and public safety under the bus, we need to reconsider what is essential. Before we tell kids they cannot have textbooks or charge families a fee for nearly everything (full day kindergarten, pricier hot lunches, busing, athletic fees, activity fees, parking fees) we ought to share some of that pain across the town. I am not a fan of rubbish fees, but I am less a fan of lower property values because the perceived (incorrect) value of education in this town hurts home sales.

Much of the problem boils down to a mental partitioning many of us make when thinking about the budget: the Town Side versus the School Side. As if the two are adversaries. How can that be? Homeowners pay property tax to one office, not two. We all share in the indivisible goods provided by the services in the town. Parts of those indivisible services include education, though at first glance that may not seem the case. Massachusetts and Federal laws require the town to fund special education, to pay for placements at the regional vocational school, to pay for health insurance, pensions, and so forth for employees. Yet, every year the school is given its chunk of revenue and told to deal with it. So while fixed costs rise well beyond the control of the school department (tuition for out of town placements rose by nearly 50% in one year), the department is required to cut every year to essentially level fund. Still, the town is mandated to provide education for all eligible children.

Every time the school department and committee members talk about the impossible position for schools at public meetings, "town side" managers roll their eyes and undermine the nature of the beast, that it is the Town's responsibility to educate, not just the teachers and parents.

The various demographic groups must share the burdens of the budget shortfall. Not to do so is discriminatory, punishing families for having children and choosing to raise them in Tewksbury. Now, after years and years of substantial cuts in the operations budgets to fund ever rising fixed costs, the cuts are hitting other departments, harder in the public safety area. No one likes or frankly, supports these cuts. However, with slow growth in town, a reduction in funds from the state, and no one-time monies ready to dig us out of the hole, the town still has to present a balanced budget.

I'm encouraged by the direction of the new Board of Selectmen and a real attempt to create a sustainable financial plan to put these budget woes behind us with what I call Selissen's Manifesto, the Three-Year Plan Task Force.

Like so many, I am hopeful that Cressman's office can pull a rabbit out of its hat in the form of some accounting gymnastics or obtain some help from the legislature. But I am not holding my breath. The more residents that come to town meeting can raise these questions and make significant changes on town meeting floor about budget reductions. Residents can ask committee members why certain cuts were chosen and residents can vote down the budget.

When this budget comes to Town Meeting floor on Monday, if the money articles are not deferred, passage will result in a very different town come July 1. In some ways, essential services will be stripped down and smashed against a wall until unrecognizable, just like that D-cell battery at the high school.

Tarr opens new district office; announces weekly schedule

ROWLEY - Senate Assistant Minority Leader Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) has opened a new district office, and has announced that it will be open for constituent service hours on a regular weekly basis.

The new office is located in the Rowley Hall Annex at 39 Central Street in Rowley. Its official opening is the culmination of several months of renovations to the recently unused space, and collaborative efforts between Tarr's office and the Board of Selectmen.

"This new office will provide us with the opportunity to meet the needs of constituents in a local setting which is convenient to access," said Tarr. He noted that the Town Hall Annex is readily accessible from Routes 1, 133 and Interstate Highway 95.

Importantly, Tarr said his office will maintain constituent services hours throughout the Senate district, which encompasses 17 communities. "The Rowley office will complement a full schedule of regular monthly office hours with a schedule that will ensure that there are times every week when constituents have a local point of contact."

The district office will be open regularly on Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and every other Thursday starting on the 26th from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. and further as necessary, and by appointment.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

Roaring Twenties this Friday night

A reminder to those people who have purchased a ticket to the Roaring Twenties Fundraiser being held at the Tewksbury Country Club Friday, May 4th. The event begins at 6:00 p.m. with a cocktail hour, photos, silent auction. Dinner will be served at 7:00 p.m. and dancing along with other festivities will commence at 8:15 p.m. Don't forget that the 1920's attire is encouraged but not mandatory; and do plan on having a great time. Unfortunately, tickets will NOT be available at the door.

Senior Citizens are reminded that Annual Town Meeting will be held next Monday, May 7th beginning at 8:00 p.m. at the High School.

A Special Town Meeting will also be held next week on Wednesday, May 9th at 7:00 p.m. at the High School. The COA, Building Committee and Director encourage Senior Citizens to attend this Special Town Meeting and support Warrant Article # 8. This article would allow the Town to borrow additional funds ($350,000) for the Senior Center Project. As noted in the Special Town Warrant, the Town anticipates using this article as a bridge funding until two other sources of funds become available to cover this amount...which means the debt exception loan (Article #8) would be eliminated with the receipt of the said funds to cover the requested $350,000. These two sources of funds are not expected to become available until closer to the substantial completion of the project and Article #8 would act, as noted above, as a bridge fund until the two sources are realized. This article is very important part of completing the Senior Center Project. Hence your support at Special Town Meeting is requested.

There are still some tickets remaining for the Mohegan Sun day trip of Friday, May 11th. Those interested should purchase a ticket by next Wednesday, May 7th. The ticket cost is $20 per person.

Departure time of this trip is 7:00 p.m. from the Livingston Street Parking Lot. The Swinging Singers Chorus practice dates for May at the White House are: Tuesday, May 15th at 4:00 p.m. and Tuesday, May 29th at 4:00 p.m. All are welcome to join in this chorus.

The next Senior Center "Cootie Party" is scheduled for Friday, May 18th at 12:45 p.m. Those Senior Citizens interested in participating in the Senior Center Memorial Day Parade activities, are asked to sign up at the Senior Center. There are two lists posted on the bulletin board: one for the general float; and, one for the Red Hat float. When signing up, please indicate whether you will be riding the float or walking. A parade meeting date will be noted in this column next week.

Red Hat Carnation Belles' will travel to the North Shore Theatre on Saturday, May 12th to see the musical "Crazy for You." The cost of the trip is $64 and includes mini bus transportation, lunch prior to the show and gratuities. Tomorrow, May 4th, will be the last day to purchase a ticket.

Have a great week. God Bless America.

RMLD Board votes Ellen Kearns first woman Chair

READING - On April 25, the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) Board of Commissioners voted unanimously to appoint Ellen Kearns as Chair of the RMLD Board, the first woman to hold this position in its 113-year history.

Kearns has been an RMLD commissioner since 2004 when Reading selectmen appointed her to fill a one-year position left vacant when Commissioner Bill Hughes passed away suddenly on April 5 of that year. Reading voters re-elected Kearns in 2005 and again on April 3 of this year.

Outgoing Chairman Phil Pacino said, "History has been made again this evening. We are very pleased to have a woman with Ellen's credentials serve as Chairperson of the RMLD Board of Commissioners. She has proven to be an invaluable asset, and I look forward to working with her on future projects."

Kearns is an attorney at Foley & Lardner LLP in their Labor & Employment Practice. She has been a labor and employment lawyer for 32 years, representing management exclusively. During her career she has represented many public utility companies, including Commonwealth Electric, Commonwealth Gas, Cambridge Gas & Electric, Fitchburg Gas &

Electric, Maine Yankee, Nantucket Electric, Central Maine Power and Mass Electric. Ellen has written extensively on wage and hour matters, serving as Editor-in-Chief of the Treatise, The Fair Labor Standards Act.

A graduate of Regis College and Boston College Law School, Attorney Kearns received the Women's Bar Association of Massachusetts (WBA) Lelia J. Robinson Award in 2006, honoring her professional excellence in the legal profession, her support of advancement opportunities for women and her influence on women pursuing legal careers or performing exemplary public service. Kearns has also received the Cushing Gavin Award for Excellence in Labor Management Relations and is a member of the College of Labor & Employment Lawyers. She is listed in Chambers USA: America's Leading Lawyers for Business for 2006, The Best Lawyers in America® and Who's Who Legal USA - Management Labor & Employment 2006.

Kearns is a Trustee on the Regis College Board, is a past President of the National Conference of Women's Bar Associations and was a member of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Women. She has been active in the American, Boston and Women's Bar Associations.

Kearns' father, Lawrence M. Kearns, of Beverly was a labor lawyer for 44 years, and a partner in the law firm Morgan, Brown, Kearns & Joy, where Ellen practiced with him for six years. A resident of Reading for 27 years, Ellen is the oldest of eight children, including five brothers and two sisters.

Pacino also congratulated Commissioner Richard Hahn, who was voted unanimously to fill the position of vice chair and Commissioner Mary Ellen O'Neill, who was voted unanimously to fill the position of secretary. On April 3 Reading voters re-elected Pacino to serve as commissioner for his 8th consecutive term, originally elected in 1987.

Senator Tucker earns perfect score for her work on environmental issues

BOSTON - The Massachusetts Audubon Society recently announced that Senator Sue Tucker received a perfect score of 100% on its 2006 Legislative Report Card for her support of issues that protect the environment.

Long regarded as one of the strongest voices on behalf of environmental issues in the Legislature, Tucker said she is proud to stand among those who understand the basic importance of clean water, clean air, and the reduction of toxic elements in our environment. Tucker also said that she was especially pleased that her bill, The Mercury Reduction Act, was signed into law last year.

"The health of our planet and the health of our children depend on us acting as good stewards of the environment," she said. "It will always be one of my top priorities."

Staying happy and healthy with Reflexology

The staff at Wilmington and Lexington Health Care Centers, focus on Keeping a Happy Healthy Body with certified Reflexologist Marilyn Alling. Marilyn Alling is a certified reflexologist and a board member of the Massachusetts Association of Reflexology and a member of the Reflexology Association of America. In addition she is a volunteer of Care Alternatives; A Hospice provider servicing the patients at Wilmington and Lexington Health Care Centers as well as their other 13 Healthbridge Management Homes in the state. Marilyn volunteers her time providing Reflexology to Hospice patients for Care Alternatives. She has a passion for what she does and enjoys helping others.

Last week Marilyn and both teams of Wilmington and Lexington Health Care Centers shared a program with more than 40 seniors of the Burlington Senior Center on Reflexology and its affects on the rest of your body. The crowd watched in curiosity and excitement as Marilyn practiced her technique on the Admissions Director of Wilmington Health Care Center Jane Mayo. By the time the lecture and condensed demonstration were finished 7 seniors had signed up to have a session done themselves the following month. Many questions were asked of Marilyn in relation to Neuropathy, Diabetes and other ailments relating to the feet. Marilyn described this treatment as a natural, non-invasive therapy that supports the body's ability to heal itself. Many medical conditions are directly related to blockages in energy flow. Reflexology helps to clear away these blockages, resulting in improved circulation, restoration of balance, and relaxation.

After the lecture and demonstration everyone was invited to join the staff of Wilmington and Lexington Health Care Center's in an Ice Cream Social where they provided all the fixins' to make the most delicious sundae!! It was a great and relaxing day had by all and focused on how important they feel as a company it is to keep a happy healthy body!!

Postal Service food drive May 12

The National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC), in conjunction with the U.S. Postal Service, the United Way and AFL-CIO, will be collecting non-perishable food items on Saturday, May 12, for distribution to food banks within the community.

The NALC food drive is the single largest food drive in the country. More than 750 million pounds of non-perishable food have been collected by letter carriers since initiating the annual event in 1993.

More than 1,500 local NALC branches in all 50 states and United States jurisdictions are involved in the drive.

Persons wishing to participate in the food drive are asked to put non-perishable food items near their mailbox for pickup by letter carrier when delivering their mail.

A group from the Wilmington Methodist Church has just returned from Vancleave, Mississippi where they worked with UMCOR for a week from April 21st to 28th repairing homes devastated by Hurricane Katrina. In spite of all the volunteer hours devoted by people across the country, there is still a great need to get families out of trailers and back into their own homes. Some of the work consisted of putting up sheet rock panels (about 35 sheets), taping, mudding, and first coat painting. At another house, a kitchen counter was installed along with the sink and related plumbing; flooring was put down in the living room. At still another house, a plywood sheet ceiling was installed and painted. Progress in rebuilding was noted from last year's trip, but there are still many empty slabs of concrete where somebody's house once stood. Kneeling: George Smith, David Fielding, George Ross. Library - by the numbers

Here at the Tewksbury Public Library we count a variety of things to measure how busy we are, how successful we are, and where we may want to work a little harder. We report these numbers to the state annually, but we keep track of them throughout the year for our own use. As we approach town meeting I think these numbers can help us tell the taxpayers what a great value the library is.

The easiest thing to count is the number of visits we get: how many people walk through our doors every day, week, and month. This job was made easier for us and more accurate with the activation of our "people counter" last summer: no more handheld clickers or estimating. Between Jan. 1 and April 24, 2007 we had 65,272 visits to the library, an average of over 570 people per day.

Some of those visitors were coming to one of the 128 meetings and programs held in the library during the first 4 months of the year outside of our usual schedule of storytimes and crafts in the Children's room. Our big meeting room hosted 90 of those events, from parenting workshops to affordable housing information sessions to umpire trainings! The other 38 meetings were held in either the trustee's room or the local history room:

groups like the recycling committee, Tewksbury Cares and other agencies all make excellent use of our smaller meeting spaces. Maintaining and managing meeting space is critical to the library's role as a community gathering place.

Many of those visitors were here to use our computers: to surf the Internet, look for jobs, conduct research, or use our software for reports. Thanks to our automated sign-in software our computers are almost entirely self-service; this system also keeps excellent statistics for us. Since January 1, 2007 we have had 9,285 uses of our computers: an average of over 80 per day, for an average time of about 44 minutes.

Most of those 65,272 visitors were here to borrow materials: books, magazines, DVDs, books on CD and more. From January 1 to April 24th we have checked out or renewed over 79,000 items! We can try and calculate the value of the library just from this number: if an average cost of a book is considered to be $10, then Tewksbury library patrons have already saved over $790,000 by using the public library to get their reading and research materials in just the first 4 months of the year.

We have many more services available, each with its own set of numbers: museum pass reservations, reference questions, database use, downloads of our digital products, and requests for materials from other libraries across the state and the country. Together all of these statistics give the library staff the foundation for planning new services, selecting materials and program topics, and planning staffing levels.

What's new at the library?

• Try our new digital videos, available at our website www.tewksburypl.org. Download and watch documentaries, how-to videos, independent films and more. All free with your library card!

• For the month of May visit the library and see the beautiful creations of members of the Tewksbury Community of Artists. This exhibit will take place in all areas of the library.

• On May 24th at 7:00 pm join us for a scrapbooking workshop with Emily Classon. Register in advance at the Reference desk.

• Checkout a "Playaway": a portable MP3 player with an entire audiobook already downloaded and installed.

• Coming up on June 2nd the Trustees will hold another Community yard Sale and media sale to raise money for their scholarship fund. This sale will be held in conjunction with the Friends' of the Library monthly used book sale. Reserve your table today, this promises to be a big event.

Caputo and Balz have helped develop and contribute to the success of LFO, JoJo, Rachel Loy, and Boys Like Girls. They're also working with 19-year-old Aimee Proal, an up-and-coming artist whose first public appearance was singing the National Anthem for the Lowell Spinners in 2005.

Lowell Spinners Owner/CEO Drew Weber and a representative from MusicWorks, a Tewksbury music school, are also scheduled to attend as judges.

The "Spinners Idol" grand prize winner will perform the National Anthem before both the Spinners play at Fenway on August 11 and the Lowell Spinners Opening Night on June 19. As a bonus, the winner will also receive free studio time to record a demo tape at MusicBall Entertainment in Boston. Other winners will be selected to sing before Spinners games this summer.

Two audition events are scheduled: the first on Thursday, May 3 at 6:00 p.m. at Hookside Kelly's in downtown Lowell, and the second on Thursday, May 10 at 6:00 p.m. at the Skybox Restaurant in Tewksbury. Each location will be limited to 50 auditions.

To register for a time-slot, candidates must return the registration form posted at the Lowell Spinners website (www.lowellspinners.com) <<http://www.lowellspinners.com>>. Fans are encouraged to register early as only the first 50 registrations for each night will be asked to audition. Each contestant may only audition once.

"Singing at Fenway Park will be a dream come true for our 'Spinners Idol' winner," said Lowell Spinners Vice President and General Manager, Tim Bawmann. "But as our players tell us every year, there's nothing like performing in front of the sold-out home crowd at LeLachur Park." For more information, please contact Jon Shestakofsky at 978-805-5117 or via email at jshesta@lowellspinners.com.

Elephants, bears, and clowns galore! The 56th Annual Aleppo Shriners Circus at the Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington last week had it all. Just ask Dave and Renay Barresi and their daughter Ava, of Wilmington, who met the Circus Chairman Richard Johnson (left) and the 2007 Aleppo Shriners Potentate, Albert D. Flight (right), also a Wilmington resident. Thousands of smiling faces came through the auditorium doors eager to get their popcorn, cotton candy and fried dough, had the Aleppo Shriners Clowns sign their program books and watch the amazing performances on all three rings.

The Shriners support what has been called the "World's Greatest Philanthropy," the Shriners Hospitals for Children, a network of 22 pediatric specialty hospitals, operated and maintained by the Shriners. All children, up to 18 years old may be eligible for treatment at Shriners Hospitals, at No Charge!

Here in Massachusetts we are blessed to have two of these hospitals: the Shriners Burns Hospital in Boston, and the Shriners Hospitals for Children in Springfield, MA.

The members of the Aleppo Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington march in parades, volunteer at the hospitals, and they also open the doors of the auditorium year-round for events and shows, check out their website at: www.alepposhriners.com for more info about the Auditorium, the Shriners and the Shriners Hospitals for Children. Main Street bank robbed in broad daylight

Suspect escapes in a tan Buick LeSabre

By JAYNE W. MILLER

TEWKSBURY - A man held up the Citizen's Bank at 295 Main Street, in front of Wal-Mart, Monday afternoon, absconding with an undetermined amount of cash after passing a note to the teller threatening her with a gun and a bomb. The white male, between 25-30 years of age with brown hair and brown eyes wearing a red baseball cap with an American flag, jeans and a dark sweatshirt, did not show the teller any weapons. He spoke to the bank employee, telling her not to include any dye packs with the money.

"It looked like he possibly had experience," said Tewksbury Deputy Police Chief Tim Sheehan. "When it looked like she was adding them into the bag with the money, the suspect reminded her, 'I told you, no dye packs.'"

The suspect, having stolen an estimated $1,000-$2,000, hoisted his dark colored backpack over his left shoulder and left the bank on foot. The teller told two customers in line behind the suspect that she had just been robbed and the good Samaritans took off after the suspect. They chased him onto the railroad tracks in front of the bank, under Main Street, and up onto Old Main Street. The suspect then joined two other individuals a tan Buick LeSabre parked on Old Main Street. Witnesses described the car as a model manufactured between 2000-2005. No plate or partial plate numbers were recovered. The vehicle took off onto Main Street, headed north toward Lowell.

Tewksbury Police released security camera photos of the suspect in the bank and describe him as a white male, 25-30 years old, 5'10" to 6' tall, of medium build with brown hair, brown eyes, sideburns, and wearing glasses. He carried a dark colored backpack or knapsack.

Sheehan said that Tewksbury Police are working with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and bank employees to investigate the robbery and asks that anyone with information contact police at 978-640-4380.

The Citizens Bank at 295 Main Street in Tewksbury was robbed on Monday afternoon. The man that police are seeking in connection with the robbery is seen leaving the scene (to the left) in this video still. He fled on foot to Old Main Street, where a tan Buick LeSabre was waiting. Courtesy photo

A Mother's Love

pantry, and they come to realize that a vast majority of the people living in Massachusetts are just one or two paychecks away from needing assistance. They see hunger in the eyes of the clients, a hunger that not only exists in their stomach, but stems from their soul. Putting food in their hands satisfies both body and soul.

The good news is that most of the clients utilize services for a short time just until they get back on their feet and can afford to put food on the table. More good news is that so often the very people who once relied on a food pantry find success, remember what a vital role the food pantry played in their recovery, and return the favor by volunteering or giving back. Food pantries provide a hand-up more than they provide a hand-out.

This Mother's Day you can give a hand-up to people who need it.

There are three basic ways to participate in this particular Mother's Day event in Wilmington and Tewksbury. One way is by dining at one of the participating restaurants - those restaurants have committed to donating $10 to the Food Pantry for each family who dines at their restaurant on Mother's Day and mentions the event when making a reservation. Another way is to visit a participating business and deposit some money into a food pantry canister. Yet another way to help is to bring a non-perishable food item to a participating store or business and place it in a food pantry donation box.

Todd Johnson, Board Chair of the Tewksbury Food Pantry said, "The Tewksbury Community Pantry is very grateful to all Tewksbury restaurants participating in the Town Crier sponsored Mothers' Day fundraiser. The generosity of the restaurants and their respective patrons will help fill the pantry shelves for those in need in our community.

There is no better way to recognize the many contributions made by mothers in the form of food and nourishment than to perpetuate the gift for those less fortunate. On behalf of those who rely on the pantry for assistance, the pantry board of directors thanks all those who participate in this unique and exciting fundraiser for their generosity and support. Happy Mothers' Day!"

The Luna Rossa Restaurant extended an invitation to their customers on Easter Sunday to join the family owned restaurant and, as a result, was able to make a much-needed donation to the Tewksbury Food Pantry. One of the owners of the Luna Rossa, David DiCenzo, is eager to participate in the same type of event on Mother's Day.

"It was an opportunity to play an active role in the community by helping people who are not quite as fortunate as the people who were able to dine here with their family at Easter," DiCenzo said. "We received some wonderful comments from our customers who said that they felt really happy to help other people, too."

Some retail stores, like Robert P. Flaherty Jewelers in Wilmington, will display a canister for customers to make a donation while other businesses, like Fudge Properties, a newly opened real estate office (next to D & D Lock) will place a box for customers to donate non-perishable food items.

Bob DiPalma from the Wilmington Food Pantry comments, "Wilmington is really a special town. Since the food pantry opened in 1992, we have been completely supported by the residents, the schools, the churches, fraternal groups, and the businesses, as well as an army of volunteers from all of the above groups. Over the years many families in need of assistance, whether it be for a short time or several years, have found help in Wilmington. 'Oh, thank you so much,' is what I hear, and I would like the town to hear, also."

The Town Crier will publish a complete list of participating businesses in the May 9th edition so that readers can have an opportunity to visit them. So, take a minute to decide which method of participation works for you and honor your mother by helping other mothers show their love with food on the table for their family. Just like the customers at Luna Rossa, you will enjoy this important holiday more than ever before. Give a special gift to your mother by allowing her to feel extraordinarily fortunate to have someone as caring as you in her life. A Mother's love - food on the table for needy families...we can make it happen, together!

Newhouse and Cimaglia for three years

Cimaglia won the second available seat in his very first bid for public office with a total of 1,891 votes. He bested all competition in Precincts 3 and 4, and bested Sullivan in every precinct, save for Precinct 6. Precinct 6 voted at Town Hall.

"I feel great and I look forward to serving the town, and I congratulate Mike, Suzanne, and Frank on a hard fought race and a good campaign," Cimaglia said after the election. "I'd like to thank all the voters who came out, and all the veterans - past and present - who have fought for and protected our way of life and have given us the right to vote."

Sullivan lost her seat on the Board with a third place finish and 1,719 total votes. She did not carry a single precinct, but bested Newhouse by 15 votes in Precinct 4 and Cimaglia by 6 votes in Precinct 6.

"My opponents ran a pretty good campaign," Sullivan said. "They ran together - they can't deny that at this point - and pulled out all the stops and only beat me by about 175 votes. Considering, I did very well."

West's hopes for a return to the Board were dashed with just 882 votes, and a distant fourth place finish.

"I'm obviously disappointed that I lost, but I'm excited that the overall voter turnout was up," West said. "I wish Mike and Lou well, and I'm sure they'll do well as long as they listen to the residents. I think things will run well."

Sullivan and West were both elected to the Board with impressive numbers in the 2003 election - Sullivan took a first place finish with 2,600 votes for the final year of a vacated seat, and West won a 3-year seat with 1,575 votes. Nearly 3,800 voters came out to cast votes during that election.

In 2004, Sullivan retained her seat for a full 3-year term with 1,772 votes. Newhouse also ran in 2004, taking the top spot, and winning the other available seat, with 1,848 votes.

West lost his seat last year to challenger, and current selectman, Charles Fiore. Fiore beat West in the 2006 election by 888 to 774.

West has no regrets regarding the way he ran this year's campaign.

"I think I ran it the way I wanted, there's nothing I'd do different," West said. "My strategy is that I'm myself."

West is not ready to rule out a future run, but will focus on his family, being a den leader for cub scouts, and being involved in the Minutemen and the Wilmington Historical Commission for the foreseeable future.

This year, Sullivan instituted a number of new strategies that differed from the grassroots feel of her previous campaigns. In addition to utilizing the services of a professional political consultant, her campaign contracted a political polling firm out of Utah to gauge her support in town. She also stationed poll watchers at each voting location to keep track of which of her supporters had, and had not, made it to the polls.

"We ran things a little bit different this year," Sullivan said. "We had a lot of fun, it was an enjoyable experience. I wish my opponents the best of luck on the Board."

Sullivan is not ready to commit to a run in next year's election, but won't rule it out either. Regardless, she plans to continue to be active in the community.

"Suzanne Sullivan is not going anywhere," Sullivan said. "I'll continue to be a much needed voice. I care too much about my community to walk away after losing an election by only 172 votes. There is a constituency that I represent, and they count just as much as anyone else."

Newhouse stuck with the strategies that have worked so well for him in the past - a well-organized team of friends, family, and resident-supporters who planted signs and drummed up support through phone calls and networking.

"Leading right up to the final hour, we did everything that we could possibly do," Newhouse said. "While I was cautiously optimistic, I was also confident that, win or lose, we'd done our very best."

In the School Committee race, first time entrant Judith O'Connell topped the ticket and won one of three available seats with a total of 2,171 votes. Incumbents Margaret Kane and Joan Duffy retained their seats with total votes of 2,090 and 1,916 respectively. Incumbent Daniel Ardito lost his seat with a respectable fourth place finish and 1,516 total votes.

O'Connell was bested only in Precinct 1 by Kane with votes of 305 and 327 respectively.

Matthew Cox won a seat on the Wilmington Housing Authority, which was the only other contested race on the ballot. He narrowly beat out Ruth Reed by a vote of 1,379 to 1,334.

Leona Bombard was the only candidate to seek an unexpired term available on the Wilmington Housing Authority, and walked on with 2,218 votes.

Robert Peterson retained his position on the Shawsheen Valley Technical School Committee in an uncontested race with 2,650 votes.

No candidate appeared on the ballot for a seat on the Redevelopment Authority, but Sid Kaizer won the spot with seven write-in votes.

Winning essay from Wilmington

Nicholas DiStefano read winning essay at Faneuil Hall

BOSTON - Nicholas DiStefano won 1st place in the League of Women Voters' Annual Online Student Essay Contest. The theme for this year's Essay Contest, made possible through the generous support of Stop & Shop, is "Making Democracy Work: Citizens' Rights and Responsibilities." The League received thousands of essays from students all across the state.

Nicholas read his winning essay in historic Faneuil Hall on April 29, at the League's Making Democracy Work Awards Event. Nicholas wrote, "My favorite idea is to have online voting. Voter's time would be saved by not having to go to the polls and wait to vote. If you don't have a computer you could go to a public library or traditional polling location. Security would have to be created so a hacker doesn't tamper with the votes. The system would need security similar to online tax filing by using social security numbers for identification."

Nicholas received a US Savings Bond, certificate of recognition, and a letter from Senator Edward Kennedy commending him on his accomplishment. Nicholas' teacher at the St. Mary's School in Winchester, Albina Hanegan, received an educational grant at the event in appreciation of the inspiration and encouragement given to her students.

Madhu Sridhar, President of the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts, said in her remarks at Faneuil Hall, "Citizen participation is vital to the preservation of a free and democratic society and no group is more important to that mission than the next generation of voters and leaders - the young people here today. Civic engagement is at the core of our communities' health, and all communities must continue to foster young people's interest and involvement in civic life. The League has developed a number of innovative projects that reach out to young people to encourage them to engage civically in their communities and in the state. The League's Online Essay Contest is one of these projects. Through this essay contest, young people, their teachers and their parents discuss some of the challenging issues facing our democracy."

The Mayor of Boston, Thomas M. Menino, brought greetings

from the city and urged the students to make a difference in their communities and become leaders in their schools. Alan Khazei, co-founder of City Year, urged the young people to participate in a program of national service as a way to fulfill their responsibilities as citizens.

"The Making Democracy Work event is a celebration of democracy," according to Ms. Sridhar, "Listening to the next generation of voters and leaders discuss citizens' rights and responsibilities and present creative ways to increase citizen participation in government is inspiring. These students give me confidence that the future of our democracy is strong."

'Cyber Voting at Home'

By Nicholas DiStefano

Voting for government officials is a very important foundation of our Democracy. Only 122,267,553 citizens voted in the last presidential election. In some countries like Peru, people are fined if they don't vote. This is the wrong incentive to make people vote. Peru's policy makes people vote out of fear rather than duty or incentive. Most adults say they don't vote because the choices are bad, but not voting is not going to make the choices any better. People will vote if it is easy or they have a financial incentive to vote.

My first idea of a $25 tax credit gives a person a financial incentive but it creates two problems. The cost would be at least $3,056,688,825 (122,267,553 X 25). This also sends a similar message as Peru. Financial gain or loss for voting does not feel Democratic.

My favorite idea is to have online voting. Voter's time would be saved by not having to go to the polls and wait to vote. If you don't have a computer you could go to a public library or traditional polling location. Security would have to be created so a hacker doesn't tamper with the votes. The system would need security similar to online tax filing by using social security numbers for identification. Due to identity theft, the security would have to include a second code. Because so many younger people know computers, more people between 18-24 will vote. Since older people are not as accustomed to computers, the existing voting process has to work with the computerized voting. Eventually the current system could be taken over by a computer voting system.

The voting public will be more inclined to vote if they are given the option of voting by computer from the comfort of their own homes.

A sizable hunk of asphalt and shards of broken glass and plexiglass littered the floor of the Town Manager's office at Town Hall on Monday morning. Two windows were broken at some point during the weekend. Considering that the windows of the same office were splattered by paint after the 2006 town election, one might speculate that the culprit is simply an emotionally stunted malcontent unhappy with the democratic process.

Security threats in Tewksbury schools

the three incidents, which authorities believe are unrelated, are caught they will be prosecuted.

"We're looking to send a message that we're not going to put up with this," said Dr. McGrath to media at a press conference following the incident at the Wynn Middle School. "We want to reassure that the school environment is safe."

Friday morning a student found a "vague, yet threatening" message written on a stall in the bathroom in the boys' locker room. The School Department called Tewksbury Police who in turn called in the area's School Threat Assessment Response Team (STARS) to assess the message. Determining that due to the vague and indirect language the message was not immediately hostile, STARS together with police and administration decided not to evacuate the high school. A police officer stayed on campus for the rest of the day and STARS brought a K9 unit to the school to investigate the site further. A note went home to parents and guardians about this incident at the end of the day.

However, a second incident occurred just as students were preparing to depart for the day. Even while the K9 unit was searching the building, a science teacher discovered a "chemically reactive device" at the bottom of the stairs at the end of E corridor at approximately 1:30 p.m. Tewksbury and State Police officers returned to the school and determined that while the device was, "not capable of causing harm to any person," it would be sent to the state lab for analysis.

Deputy Police Chief Tim Sheehan reported yesterday that the device was a stripped down D-cell Alkaline battery, often used for larger, portable electronics. Apparently, someone repeatedly bashed the battery against the wall until the contents of the battery spilled onto the floor.

"The casing was so deformed from the force of being struck against the hard wall and floor that it was difficult to discern that it was a battery casing. The chemicals that came together when the battery was obliterated formed a liquid that concerned the Bomb Technicians," stated Sheehan in a statement released Tuesday. "They collected samples of this liquid and had a Chemist from the State Police Lab test it for flammability and it came back nonflammable."

Officials do not believe that whoever left the smashed battery in the hall had it in mind to create a terrorist attack. Police believe the battery did not come from inside the school.

Since Police deemed the device, discovered just minutes before dismissal, incapable of harming anyone, the administration decided not to evacuate the building. However, police, fire and K9 units from the Northeast Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council (NEMLEC) and the State Police searched the high school again, turning up nothing further. Officials moved events planned for the high school Friday night to the nearby Ryan School.

Administration officials walked the grounds Saturday in preparation for a safe return to school Monday morning and Chief of Police Al Donovan requested that students not bring backpacks or athletic bags to schools. The department put the word out through press interviews, the school department website, and cable channel 22.

Monday police were on hand at the high school to aid with bag searches. According to a statement issued by McGrath, police were also present "to re-assure all members of our school community that Tewksbury Memorial High School is a safe school where the needs and the rights of all members are respected."

Then came Monday afternoon and the Wynn.

Forty-one minutes prior to dismissal a student found a small note in the boys' bathroom printed with the words, "I V (sic) GOT A BOMB" and signed "JFK."

Sheehan stated that "JK" often refers to "Just Kidding" in text messaging shorthand. The "F" in this case likely refers to a vulgar-ity.

McGrath stated that the student who discovered the note did, "just as we train them," and brought the note to the attention of an adult. The school principal, John Donoghue, contacted the Superintendent's office and together they decided to issue a code yellow shortly followed by a code red, bringing about a "swift and orderly evacuation out of school right onto buses."

McGrath called the timing a "mixed blessing," since the lateness in the day of the incident prevented a note from going home to parents and guardians about what transpired.

Again, the school department called in the STARS team and four K9 units, from the State, Lowell, and North Andover Police, and the ATF, were summoned to the high school. The bomb-sniffing dogs swept the school but turned up nothing. Police and Fire units "walked the school inch by inch" and found nothing out of the ordinary, stated McGrath.

Six to eight police officers responded to the Wynn Middle School along with police administration and Fire personnel.

The police have handwriting experts reviewing both the message at the high school and the note at the Wynn as part of the ongoing criminal and administrative investigations into the incidents. Police plan to utilize images from surveillance cameras in the investigation. At the high school, a student came forward with information that may eventually lead to a suspect in either the note or the device incidents.

Possible charges have yet to be determined, ranging from vandalism of school property, violation of the code of conduct, to perhaps criminal charges.

"What's astonishing is the increase in these types of incidents," said McGrath, referring to the preponderance of school threats in the weeks after the Virginia Tech massacre. "In Administration we're leaving nothing to chance in the wake of Virginia Tech."

Sheehan stated that when the police called in the STARS team on Friday there were four other school incidents in the area, two in New Hampshire.

On Tuesday a note went home to parents and guardians district-wide announcing a forum on school safety Wednesday, May 2, at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium at Tewksbury Memorial High School for the purpose of discussing the events and actions taken at the High School and the Wynn School and answering questions from those in attendance.

Barry, Fahey and Farnsworth shatter Class B Relay mark

Trio toss javelin record aside

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

MILTON — On Saturday afternoon at Milton High School several members of the Wilmington High boys track team joined hundreds of other athletes from around the state and participated in the 64th Annual Massachusetts State Coaches Class C Relay Meet.

While there were many outstanding performances turned in by many of the best athletes in the entire state, none had a better day than the javelin team that represented the Wildcats.

The trio of senior Shawn Fahey and juniors Nick Farnsworth and Tom Barry didn't just win their event for the second year in a row, they did so in remarkable fashion, setting a new state record for the event with a total distance of 477-11. The total shattered the previous state record of 473-11 set by Bishop Feehan in 2004.

Wilmington coach Bob Cripps had predicted a couple of weeks back that this group would break the state record, but despite having the utmost confidence in his athletes, he was still able to take great pride in them once the mission was accomplished.

"I was only with them for a few minutes at the beginning of the meet and I saw how they were doing compared to the other teams," Cripps said. "I knew they were in good shape and when I saw just how well they had done I was really thrilled for them."

The trio actually broke the record on the second of their three allotted throws, but only by a few inches and then with their third throws they were able to break their own new record by nearly four feet.

All three were understandably thrilled with setting the record and all acknowledged that it was a culmination of a season long goal.

"It was very exciting. We really wanted to set the record and we were really close after our first throw so we knew we could do it," Farnsworth said.

"Shawn and I did a lot of summer meets together and we wanted to leave our mark on Wilmington and we felt like there was no better way than to break the state record."

Fahey acknowledged the amount of pressure the group was under going into the meet. Nothing short of a state record would have been acceptable to them.

"Once we set the record it was actually kind of a relief," Fahey said. "We knew going in we would have a good chance to break it. I think that breaking it on the second throw allowed us to relax a lot more going into the third throw."

Barry is the relative newcomer to the group, having just started throwing the javelin a few weeks ago, and having played baseball last spring. While Fahey and Farnsworth were part of the championship trio last season that included Matt Marden, Barry had not experienced this thrill of victory, and he loved getting his first taste of it.

"Having not thrown for a long time, I was very excited," Barry said. "Those guys did a great job throwing it the longest, but I was just glad to be a part of it."

Barry, who threw 141-6, compared to Fahey's 158-11 and Farnsworth's 176-8 is probably downplaying his role in the record far too much, but he does truly feel happy to have joined up with two such talented individuals.

"I am pretty honored to work with kids like that," Barry said. "Shawn won states last year and Nick is just having a great year so it is a real honor. They have been working really hard and are really good at what they do so it is a privilege to work with them."

While Barry considers it an honor to work with such great athletes, his two teammates truly appreciate that he took over the role as the third member of their team. Without Barry, there is no state record, they feel.

"Tommy came on and did a great job," Farnsworth said. "We needed somebody to do it and he really stepped up to the plate and did even better than we could have expected."

Fahey added, "Tom is a really athletic kid. A couple of weeks before the relays he just picked up the javelin and did a great job. We were at a meet and he just said during the meet, that he wanted to try and he threw 130 feet on his first throw."

While Barry is a newcomer to the javelin, the same can certainly not be said for the Fahey and Farnsworth, who have been it with the Wildcats for three years, participated in both the winter and spring track teams, and also worked together all summer long to improve in the event.

Along with Farnsworth's father Dave, the duo traveled to many meets in the eastern United States over the summer, eventually doing so well that Farnsworth placed third in the national meet for his age group while Fahey finished eighth in his age group.

They knew then that they were headed for a possibly historic season and the early season had done little to dissuade the good friends from having those thoughts heading into Saturday. The pair have the utmost respect for each other, and know that part of the reason they are each so successful is that they have each other to push.

"Shawn and I have been together for three years and we are great friends and are also two of the best in the state in the javelin," Farnsworth said. "It's like an All-State meet at every one of our meets and it just helps us get better."

"This summer was probably the most fun I have had as far as a track experience," Fahey said. "It's great to have him as a teammate and such a good friend. It's really good for us to have each other for competition."

For Fahey, just the fact that he is competing this season is nothing short of a miracle, as he has recovered from a life threatening brain injury suffered during football season. Fahey was forced to miss all of football and baseball season, but was able to come back for the track season to defend his state title in the javelin and he appreciates even more just being part of the team and having a chance to compete.

"With all of the stuff I went through this year, just being able to come back and compete was the biggest joy for me," Fahey said. "I remember as soon as I found out I had been cleared for track I ran down and told coach Cripps that I would be ready for the season. Once the season started, I threw 173-0 in my first meet and I was amazed that it was almost like the end of last year."

That Fahey was so excited to share his news with Cripps should come as no surprise as all three athletes credit the coaching staff, headed by Cripps, for bringing out the best in them. Cripps leads the way but they get special instruction from volunteer Dave Farnsworth and throwing coach Mike Kinney.

All three athletes acknowledge that they would not be the record holders they are today if not for the contributions of the coaching staff.

"Coach Kinney does a lot of work to make sure we are all in sync and doing our job," Barry said. "Nick's dad has been awesome. He's at every meet and is always there trying to help me improve. I owe a lot of thanks to the coaches for helping me improve so much."

Fahey echoed Barry's sentiments, adding, "They are two of the best coaches you could ever hope for. Mr. Farnsworth ran track in high school so he knows all the events and is even helping me in training for the decathlon. Mr. Kinney refuses to take credit for all we have done, but he puts a lot of work in with us. If I have a free period, a lot of times I am spending it with him, looking up javelin techniques. He puts a lot of work into being a great coach."

For Farnsworth having his dad be a part of not only his summer regimen, but also on hand for the record setting day, made a very special moment even better.

"My dad has been a tremendous help and has been a real inspiration to me," Farnsworth said. "I love that he wants to be there not only for me, but also for the rest of the team. It's been great to have him there."

Golf tourney helps to remember, honor a son

Remembering a loved one who is no longer with us is tough under any circumstances, but the anniversary of a death is a day that often sparks many emotions, one of which is thinking always of what might have been. When a young athlete dies well before his or her time, that loss is often marked by a benefit or a tournament. Friends, athletes and family members gather together to remember and help a cause at the same time. Honoring and remembering, while at the same time giving back to a community that loved and admired someone who was very special.

Friends, family and some total strangers will gather together to play in the Fourth Annual Ron "Ronnie" Olson Jr. Memorial Scholarship Golf Tournament at the Far Corner Golf Course in Boxford Sunday May 20. The style of play will be Best Ball, with the registration fee of $125.00 including a sleeve of balls, a cart, dinner and a gift.

A gift. That's what Ronnie Olson's 22 years on this earth was to his Dad, Ron Olson, Sr. The senior Olson has some memories of his son that are rekindled every spring when some duffers tee it up to give back to the memory of a kid who gave so much and deserved better than how his life ended March 14, 2004. That night, the Clark University history major was killed by a drunk driver five weeks before his college graduation. The plans for law school were gone. A future that would have included a family, kids of his own and a successful career at anything that he chose to do were crushed by someone that chose to drink and drive and not only take a life, but to forever affect anyone who every loved Ronnie Olson, Jr.

"He was my best friend. We had so many plans after he graduated from college," remembers the senior Olson. "He wanted someday for the both of us to coach a baseball team together. He wanted me to teach him how to play golf someday. Then a drunk driver murdered him."

Olson, Sr. has that memory of that night that sticks in his craw and eats away at him every day of his life. I played softball with the senior Olson many years ago on an Airport Restaurant team that featured a collection of veteran players that I admired for their ability to have fun playing a sport that they loved long after high school. The baseball letter sweaters were long gone, but the camaraderie and competition were on display every night at the Livingston Street Field.

The senior Olson was a fleet-footed outfielder who slapped the ball to all fields for manager Bob Ware's perennial Tewksbury Recreation Softball League powerhouse. I sat on the bench and admired Olson's talent and his work ethic. Now, I admire his courage in the face of a family tragedy. The guy has guts. His son would be proud.

"I wanted to give him a graduation party with about 15 or 20 people, but he said no because he knew that we couldn't afford it," remembers Olson.

Five weeks after his son's death, his father was honored to accept his son's Clark University diploma at the school's graduation ceremonies. The Clark University Library is dedicated to Ronnie Olson, Jr.

At Tewksbury High School, Ronnie played baseball (four years), hockey (two years), ran

Olson Golf Tournament, May 20

The fourth annual Ron "Ronnie" Olson, Jr. Memorial Scholarship Golf Tournament will be held on Sunday, May 20, 2007 at the Far Corner Golf Course in Boxford.

The $500.00 raised through this tournament goes directly to the "Ronnie Olson, Jr. Scholarship", presented to a Tewksbury High senior who will be attending college.

The style of play in this fundraiser will be best ball, and the price of the tournament will be $125.00 per person which includes a sleeve of balls, a cart, dinner and a gift. There will be contests for longest drive and closest to the pin on all par threes. The starting times will be 11:14 am on the first and 10th holes and after signing up you'll be contacted with your tee-time. The first 80 golfers to sign-up will participate. Please arrive a half hour before tee time check in.

Olson died on March 14, 2004 when his car was struck by a drunk driver. Olson graduated from Tewksbury Memorial High School and was a member of its baseball team. He was six weeks away from graduating from college when the accident occurred, attending Clark University in Worcester and studying to become a lawyer.

If you are interested in participating in the tournament, or if anyone or any businesses are interested in helping with donations, please contact Jean and Ron Olson, at 75 Pennacook Drive, Tewksbury, Ma., 01876 or call 978-651-9026 or 978-302-6113. Please make checks payable to Ron Olson.

cross-country and track (two years). He went on to Clark, where he would play baseball for two-and-one-half years before a leg injury ended that career. No leg injury would ever have stopped Ronnie from eventually playing softball and running like a deer just like his Dad.

No drunk can ever take those memories and hopes from the father and his family. Hang tough, Ron Olson, Sr. Don't ever allow some nitwit to take away your life and your memories. Evil deserves nothing.

The senior Olson will be heading to court this month to battle the bar that served the man who took his son's life. While this guy sits in prison eating three squares a day, Ron Olson, Sr. is left with the fight and the good memories that will hopefully stick with him until the day he dies. Hold on to the memories and honor all the good stuff, Ron. Your son would want it that way.

Legend leads the way

Leave it to a college football coaching legend to help lead the way in the face of an unspeakable tragedy. Virginia Tech football coach Frank Beamer, shortly after announcing the cancellation of the Hokies' annual spring game in the wake of the recent massacre of 32 students, issued a challenge to the college, the community and its athletes.

Beamer told Roland Lazenby, the Planet Blacksburg Faculty Adviser, that: "I think there's a spirit here," he said. "This guy (the killer) certainly disgraced our school and hurt some innocent, brilliant, smart, great people, people who didn't deserve to die. For people who think of Virginia Tech and think of that, I'm not going to take it. We're not going to take it." Tough talk from a tough guy. That football program and this coach will help the community respond as the recovery process begins.

A recent Associated Press report really pointed out just what emotional direction that Beamer provides to the players and Virginia Tech at large. "If I know anything about Hokies, and I think I do, we're going to become closer, show even more respect for each other," said Beamer. "We're going to be even more proud and it's going to draw us closer together. We're hurt, but this one guy's not going to dictate how we're going to live."

This past Saturday, the Virginia Tech baseball varsity team traveled to Boston College for a game, where the BC community was strong in displaying its support. This fall, Virginia Tech football will play the Eagles at Chestnut Hill, where the game itself will take a prominent position in honoring the Hokies' commitment to recovery and understanding of this tragedy. It's just a game, but sometimes it takes a game to give a young person's life some perspective and direction.

Selling your soul for victories

It was another week of matching up your sports reports with a crime blotter, as the Patriots essentially sold their soul in a deal with the victory devil, while the Celtics cut ties with a player who was essentially more trouble than his talent was worth.

Coach Bill Belichick drafted Miami safety Brandon Merriweather and traded for Oakland Raider receiver Randy Moss and chose to ignore the red flags that surrounded both players. The college kid was involved in a nasty on-field brawl and was packing a pistol (albeit legally) this past season, and the Patriots knew all about it and still made Merriweather their first pick in this year's draft. Moss, a player with Hall of Fame ability, but who carries a litany of off-field issues and an attitude, comes to New England and makes the team instant favorites to win a championship next season.

Belichick obviously laid down his version of the law to both players and signed a deal with the Lack of Character Devil. All of this means that the team is hoping that these moves translate into victory before all hell breaks loose. One year of smooth sailing (ala Corey Dillon) to produce a championship. Toe the line (at least for a year), help us win, or be gone. For good.

Hopefully, the Miami kid has learned from his mistakes and Moss has found a personality transplant to make me look like a dummy for even thinking about this stuff. Don't count on any of that happening long-term however. Quick fixes with bad apples sometimes have a way of heading in that general direction.

Three cheers for the Boston Celtics, with some qualifications. I'm clapping with one hand tied behind my back (a neat trick that I can't explain), after learning that the team recently cut ties with gun-toting guard Sebastian Telfair. Found carrying a firearm that he wasn't licensed to carry (for a second time) gave the team some pause. His name plate was removed from the Celtics' practice facilities and he's gone. Do you think that the fact that the team saw no potential performance benefits from this player had anything to do with this decision? If he was an all-star point guard, the team would have made sure that the player was all lawyered-up before his court case. Then the excuses and athletic enabling would begin in earnest. The fact that Telfair had a lousy year and could give the Celtics virtually nothing to hope for made this decision easier. A lot easier.

The end of the world as we know it

Forget about global warming for a moment. My world shifted slightly on its axis last week when my favorite actor in the world, Harvey Keitel (Mean Streets, Bad Lieutenant) came on my TV screen appearing in a Gatorade commercial. To make matters worse, the spot included Derek Jeter of the Yankees. Talking typical Keitel 'Brooklynese', full of dems and dos, I closed my eyes and waited for the horrible moment to pass. Another great actor in a TV spot. At least Robert DeNiro had the good judgment to work for American Express. What's next? The ghost of Spencer Tracey hawking a breakfast sausage?

Boys Tennis team picks up first victory

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

After weeks of hard work, the Wilmington High boys tennis team finally reaped the rewards of their efforts on Monday afternoon with an exciting 3-2 home win over Amesbury. The win was the first of the season for the Wildcats, and coach Matt Hackett was thrilled to see his team come out on top.

"It was great to get the monkey off our back," Hackett said. "Nobody wants to go through a season without a win. There are a few more on the schedule where we can win and now we can just focus on those matches instead of worrying about getting that first win."

Picking up wins for the Wildcats were their top two singles players, Jason Evans and Irvin Co, along with their number one doubles team of Keith Little and Tom Coughlin.

Evans had to rally to win his match in three sets, by a score of 5-7, 6-4, 6-0. While he may have started off slow, Hackett was pleased with the way he controlled the later stages of the match.

"He really got his opponent playing back on his heels, and his opponent was very frustrated by the end of the second set," Hackett said. "Jason has gotten some great experience at this point in the season and he showed that today. He went out and controlled the match."

Co, meanwhile, cruised to victory in second doubles taking the win by a score of 6-4, 6-1.

"He won the first set in about 20 minutes. He was just in command," Hackett said. "He played by far his best match of the year so far. He has been steadily improving ever since his loss to Newburyport, and his confidence has just been growing and it paid off today. He was also able to utilize his experience that he had gained this season."

Little and Coughlin struggled a bit in their first set, but caught fire toward the end and rolled to a 6-4, 6-0 victory, their second win of the season over Amesbury.

"They are learning to play real well together. I have been seeing steady improvement from them," Hackett said. "They also won in straight sets the first time they played Amesbury, but they were much more dominant this time. They were very impressive."

Kenny Vassella, who has been one of the Wildcats more consistent players on the season at third singles, could not pick up a victory in Monday's match, despite playing well. He fell by a score of 7-5, 3-6, 6-3.

In second doubles, the team of Ryan Loring and Eric Cummings fell by a score of 6-1, 6-4, having a difficult time getting their game going, but responding well in the second set despite not picking up the victory.

For Hackett and the Wildcats it was certainly great to pick up that all important first win and Hackett was thrilled for his players, but he does not necessarily think there will be a huge change in the players attitudes now that they are in the win column.

"In terms of team morale, these are great kids. They still love to play the game," Hackett said. "They certainly do not like to lose, but they have remained positive throughout the year. They were so excited to win today and I was so excited for them."

Girls Tennis

The girls tennis team at Wilmington High is experiencing quite the turnaround this season, securing their third victory of the season on Monday at Amesbury by a score of 4-1 to improve their record to 3-5 on the year and exceed last year's win total of two with nine matches left in the season.

The Wildcats earned victories in all three singles matches as well as in first doubles to earn the victory. All of their singles victories came in straight sets, while second doubles won in a thrilling three set affair.

Irvin Co helped the WHS Boys Tennis team pick up its first win this past week over Amesbury. Co was in action on Monday afternoon sending a backhand to the net during a Cape Ann League Match held at the Boutwell School. (JoeBrownphotos.com)

In first singles, Taryn Martiniello came away with a 6-3, 6-2 victory. Like many of her teammates, she had a little trouble getting started in her first set, but once she caught fire there was not stopping her as she cruised to victory.

"Taryn was not 100% but she battled today," Wilmington coach Kevin Welch said. "You always know you are going to get a good match out of Taryn every time out. You know you will always get a full effort. She was down 3-2 in the first set, but she put together some good points and got her opponent to play her match."

In second singles Danielle Miles simply rolled to victory, winning in straight sets 6-0, 6-0.

"It was quite an accomplishment," Welch said. "She played well. Everything just sort of rolled for her. Everyone struggled a little in their first sets except Danielle. She was in control from the beginning."

In third singles, Erin McMahon perfectly fit the mold of most of the Wildcats, with some early match struggles, but she went on to dominate even more than most of her teammates, winning by a score of 6-3, 6-0.

"That first set was kind of close, but sometimes the momentum can really shift if you lose that set," Welch said. "She was probably up about 3-2 in the first set and all of sudden she won the first set. If you are a good player a lot of times you can pounce on your opponent at that point and that's what Erin did."

Alana Lacy and Monica Folk battled their way to victory in second doubles, coming back to win in three sets by a score of 6-7 (8-6), 6-3, 7-6 (7-3).

"The team had already won at that point and Alana and Monica were down 5-1 in the third set," Welch said. "A lot of players would have just said let's pack it in because we already won, but they did not. They battled back. It was exciting to watch them win. It was good tennis on both sides."

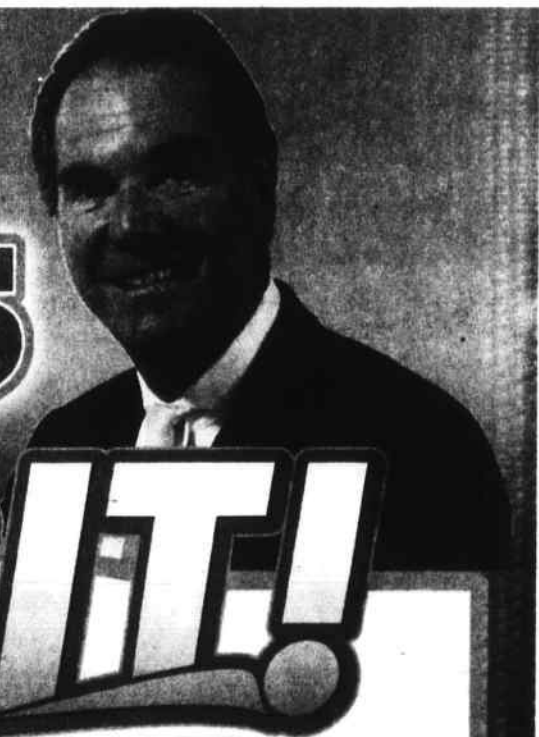

The first doubles squad of Jill Manganelli and Katie Duncan lost in three sets, but battled all the way, keeping their match close throughout.

While not satisfied with three wins, Welch is very pleased with the progress his team has made so far this season.

"It's rewarding for the kids," Welch said. "They have gone out and practiced and played hard for the last three or four years and now they are seeing the results. It's not going to be easy the rest of the way, but these girls will keep fighting to the end and they will make it exciting."

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Former Wilmington High track standout and current Fitchburg State runner Brian Schell finished 11th in the 800 meters in Saturday's "New England Alliance Outdoor Track & Field Championships." Schell was the first Falcon to cross the line, running a time of 2:03.13.

Wilmington natives Brian Gillespie and Wil Nieman both competed for Fitchburg in all of the field events. Gillespie placed eighth in the javelin, 17th in the shot put, 18th in the hammer throw and 22nd in the discus. Nieman placed 13th in the shot put, 22nd in the hammer throw, 27th in the discus and 34th in the javelin.

Ken Luongo went 2-for-3 with two RBI as he helped lead Salem State to a 6-2 victory over Westfield State in the second game of a doubleheader on Sunday. Luongo, a Wilmington High graduate, is leading his team with a .360 average.

Former Town Crier Female Athlete of the Year Lauren Rappoli had a key two-run single for the Stonehill women's softball team during Sunday's game from behind 10-5 victory in the first game of a doubleheader against Southern New Hampshire in a Northeast-10

Conference game.

Wilmington was well represented at last Tuesday's "Elizabeth Cady Stanton 5K Road Race" held in Lowell. Mark Blaisdell finished in fourth place with a very impressive time of 17:25. Trenton Hoyt finished in 35th place with a time of 21:58, a personal best. Tom Warnick's personal best time of 25:04 was good enough for 77th place. Kathleen Graziano ran a personal best time of 25:23 to take 81st place. Jeanne Cole rounded out the Wilmington participants, finishing in 155th place with a time of 32:28.

Three Wilmington residents traveled to Worcester on Sunday for the "Seventh Annual Lt. James 'Jay' Lyons Memorial Road Race." Gary Donovan finished in 92nd place with a time of 23:49. Colleen McMahon crossed the line in 284th place, clocking in at 28:50. And her father, Joe McMahon, the WHS Girls Hockey coach, finished in 466th place with a time of 36:05. Over 520 people competed in Sunday's event.

Baseball team gets stung

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

After picking up its second win of the season last Thursday, the Wilmington High School varsity baseball team struggled again with pitching, defense and with the bats, falling fast and hard to perennial league power North Reading, behind ace pitcher Brian O'Neil.

O'Neil, a very hard throwing right-hander, came out with an apparent injury after a lead off single in the sixth inning. But he managed to come through with the victory giving up one earned run on four hits as the Hornets helped him out by scoring three runs in the third and six more in the fifth to come away with a 10-1 convincing contest over the Wildcats held on a gorgeous Saturday afternoon at the Scanlon Memorial Field.

"It kind of snuck up on us," said Wildcat coach Aldo Cairra, whose team fell to 2-4 on the season. "(North Reading) got ten sneaky runs against us. The game just built up and built up. We were playing them pretty well in the first couple of innings and then we opened the door for them with a couple of miscues and they got some runs."

North Reading held a 1-0 lead before they sent all nine batters to the plate in the top of the third with the last seven coming with no runners on and two outs. That's when North Reading scored three runs on two singles, a double, a walk, a hits batsman, an error and a wild pitch to go up 4-0.

Wilmington had a chance to climb right back in the game in the home half. With the bases loaded and two outs, Brendan Sheehan hit a ball back to the box which nailed the pitcher's mound and bounced into the air where O'Neil was able to grab it and beat Sheehan to the bag to end the threat.

"I thought we hit the ball OK," said Cairra. "We didn't get many hits but we hit the ball hard and they made some nice plays. That one at bat with Brendan Sheehan where the ball went off the mound - if that ball went four inches higher off the ground, it's in center field, two runs score and it's a different kind of game. But you know sometimes you get breaks and sometimes you don't."

North Reading then broke the game wide open in the fifth inning. Starting pitcher Carlton Lentini was lifted after giving up a walk, two singles and a RBI groundout and he was relieved by Michael Enwright, who was making just his second career pitching appearance. Enwright gave up two groundballs, before a walk and a three-run home run as North Reading now had a 10-0 lead.

Wilmington did get on the scoreboard in the bottom of the fifth as Josh Mayo doubled and then scored later on by a wild pitch. He also tossed one scoreless inning of relief, giving up just one hit.

"We have to develop a third pitcher," said Cairra. "We definitely need some help pitching. I think our hitting will come around. We didn't get hits per se but we put the ball on the ball and I think we only struck out four times today. We're starting to come around, it's just getting a little more energy into these kids because they were flat today. I hate to use excuses but it's the spring and it's prom season, and (Friday night) was the junior prom and we had a lot of juniors in the starting line-up. It was hard to get them motivated today."

North Reading ended up with 11 hits including a triple and a home run.

"I think we'll be OK. (North Reading) is one of the top teams in the league and like I said we played them pretty well for the first couple of innings and then they just showed how good they really are (after that)," said Cairra.

Last Thursday, Wilmington defeated Newburyport, 6-2. Brian Svensson tossed his second complete game victory, giving up six hits without issuing a walk and striking out five. Wilmington trailed 1-0 through the first three innings and 2-1 after four, before scoring three in the fifth and one in each of the sixth and seventh innings. Offensively, David Rak led the way with a two-run single, while, Eric Siegel, Shane Foley and Eric Legro also had one RBI each.

Boys Track team earns fifth win of the season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High boys track team continued their very successful season this past week, picking up a pair of wins against just one loss to improve their record to 5-2 on the season, while also making quite an impact at the Class C State Relay Meet on Saturday afternoon, setting a state record along the way.

In their meets against CAL opponents, the Wildcats went 2-1 splitting a tri-meet last week against Pentucket and Masconomet last Wednesday, and easily defeating Ipswich on Monday afternoon.

In the Relay meet at Milton the Wildcats saw several of their athletes turn in outstanding performance, but none better than their javelin team of Nick Farnsworth, Shawn Fahey and Tom Barry, who set a new state record in their event.

On Monday at Ipswich the Wildcats braved fierce winds which made several of the events very difficult, but still managed to prevail by a very comfortable score of 89.5-55.5.

The Wildcats did not sweep many events against Ipswich, but they took first and second in numerous events and also snagged some second and third place finishes to earn the lopsided win.

One event that the Wildcats did sweep was the 200 meters, with Eric Russo taking the top spot in a time of 23.6, followed by Nick Jannone in 24.0 and Shawn Fahey in 24.3. Russo is the top 200 meter runner in the CAL.

As has come to be expected, the javelin team of Farnsworth, Fahey and Barry swept their event as well, although due to the conditions their distances were not as far as they normally are. Farnsworth won the event with a throw of 155 feet, followed by Fahey at 150 and Barry at 137.

Farnsworth's great day did not end with the javelin, as he also won the discus event with a throw of 137.9, while Nate Clarkin took second in the shot put with a personal best of 43-7, which qualified him for the state meet.

The Wildcats also took second and third place finishes in the pole vault, long jump and triple jump. Craig Bush grabbed a second place finish in the pole vault with a height of 9-0, while Kevin Carter followed close behind at 8-6.

Antar George finished second in the long jump with a jump of 20-1, while Jimmy DiNuccio took third with 18-93. In the triple jump Tony Nelson took second with a person best of 38-0, while Tom Barry followed closed behind with a third place finish.

Jared Peters turned in an outstanding performance in the high jump, with a leap of 5-6, which was good enough for a second place finish.

In the track events the Wildcats had even more success, turning those second and third place finishes into first and second place finishes.

Barry took first in the 300 meter hurdles with a time of 44.7, while Jon Parrella snared a second place finish in a time of 45.2. Meanwhile, Barry grabbed a second place finish in the 110 hurdles in a time of 17.8, following closely behind first place finisher Tyler Calway who finished in 17.0.

Bobby Folk and Caleb Rogers finished first and second in the 800 meters with Folk taking first place in a time of 2:15, followed closely by Rogers in a time of 2:19. Antar George finished first in the 100 meters with a time of 11.1, while Mike Condell grabbed first place in the 400 meters with a time of 53.4.

A pair of freshman milers came up big for the Wildcats in their event with Tom Valente taking first in a time of 5:00, followed by Kevin Flaherty in 5:02.

The Wildcats also got some key points from the 4x100 team of George, Jannone, Russo and Matt Figueirido.

The mile relay team did not win their event, but they were outstanding more in their effort with sophomore Dave Golden, freshman Folk sophomore Jimmy DiNuccio and Fahey finishing in 3:55.9 in a race that was run long after the meet results had been determined.

"Everyone was tired and had run a lot, and these guys volunteered to run the race," coach Bob Cripps said. "Fahey had never run that far in his life. They all finished in under 60 seconds. They didn't win but they had a lot of fun. It was great for the team to see others step up and race like that."

Last Wednesday in their tri-meet against Pentucket and Masco, the Wildcats earned a 81-64 win over Pentucket, while suffering a heartbreaker of a loss to Masco by a score of 72-71.

The Wildcats had several outstanding performances on the day with Clarkin and Fahey taking first and second in the shot put, while Farnsworth, Fahey and Barry swept the javelin and Farnsworth won the discus.

The Wildcats swept the triple jump against Pentucket, with Nelson, Barry and Phil Minghella controlling the event.

Calway took first overall in the 110 hurdles with a personal best time of 16.6 which qualified him for the state meet, while Condell took first overall in the 400 with a time of 53.3 to maintain his status as the top 400 runner in the CAL.

"We have been coming on strong and the kid are working very hard," Cripps said. "Other coaches in the league have been commenting on what a good team we have. I think we could finish the year at 7-2, maybe even 8-2, and those two losses have been very close."

On Saturday afternoon, the Wildcats traveled to Milton to take part in the Class C State Relay Meet. While the javelin team dominated the headlines (see other story) the Wildcats had several other outstanding performances as well.

The shot put team of Farnsworth, Clarkin and Fahey took a third place finish with a total of 124.5 feet, Farnsworth led the way with a throw of 42-9, followed by Clarkin at 41-9 and Fahey at 39-5.

The pole vault team of Craig Bush, Kevin Carter and Peter Tummino finished fifth with a total distance of 25-5.

The 4 x 400 relay team of Condell, DiNuccio, Mike Golden and Barry did not place, but they did post a great time of 3:40.8, which qualified them for the state meet.

Softball team drops all three

By JAMIE POTE

It was a very tough week for the Wilmington High School girls softball team. The extremely young and inexperienced Wildcats lost all three of its games this past week putting the record to 1-6 thus far. The tough week started last Wednesday when the 'Cats were trailing reigning Division 3 North sectional finalist Ipswich, 9-5 going to the seventh inning. The Tigers ended up scoring eight runs, but the game was called before the inning was completed, therefore it goes down as an 9-5 loss.

The following afternoon, Wilmington was defeated by Newburyport, 5-0, at Aprile Field. Wilmington managed just three hits in the game as Erin Crowley, Brittney McLaughlin and Jackie Zaremba each had singles, but several errors and misplayed fly balls led the Clippers to two runs in the second inning and two more in the fourth which was more than enough to come away with the 5-0 shut out win.

On Monday, Wilmington was trounced by the returning Division 3 North sectional champions North Reading by a 15-0 score meaning the 'Cats have been outscored 49-11 in the team's seven games.

Wilmington was scheduled to face Amesbury on Wednesday with results not known as of presstime, before hosting Hamilton-Wenham Friday night under the Aprile Field lights at 7:00 pm, followed by another night game on Monday against Triton, also at 7:00 pm before hitting the road to Manchester-Essex next Wednesday afternoon.

Girls team loses both meets

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The Wilmington High School girls outdoor track-and-field team lost both decisions to Masconomet, 105-40, and Pentucket, 81-64, in a tri-meet held last Wednesday during inclement weather.

"I was pleased with the way we competed and the attitude of the team given the weather," said coach Tom Bradley.

Wilmington had several outstanding performances including Carmen Palumbo, who won the hurdles against both teams finishing with a personal best time of 16.7 seconds, which stands as the best time in all of the Cape Ann League. Another highlight came from Kayla Hanson, who took a second in the same event finishing at 17.1 seconds, which qualified her for the state meet. And they were followed by Alicia Days, who finished with a third place against Pentucket.

Sophomore Natalie Russo won the two mile against both teams coming in at 12:32, which qualified her for the state meet, while she also took second against both teams in the 800 at 2:41 with Charlotte Jensen right behind her with a third. Freshman Amy Fahey won the discus against Pentucket with a throw of 67-3, and Leah Potcner was right behind with a second tossing 64-7. Also in the throwing events, Erin Conway won the javelin against Masco and was second against Pentucket with a mark of 84 feet, while,

Theresa McMahon was third against Masco and Alyssa Brown and Krista Murphy scored in the shot put.

In the non throwing events, Stephanie Baima was the top high jumper on the day as she cleared 4-10. Julie Braid had a second and a third in the triple jump at 28-3. Kim Silvia was tops in the 400 against Pentucket and was third versus Masco coming in at 66.4 seconds. Brianna Bozella was second in the mile in both meets coming in at 6:07 and finally, Stacey Hoang ran a personal best of 14.0 in the 100 which was good for third place.

son was treated at the Jimmy Fund Clinic, and has been a long time supporter of the Jimmy Fund. Riders who turn in their $15 registration fee and raise an additional $10 will receive a PMC Kids t-shirt. Participants are encouraged to walk, bike, and carpool to the ride, as parking is limited.

A special "PMC Kids Packet Pick Up Day" will be held on Saturday, May 19th at the Boutwell School from 9-11am. Children can come a day early to pick up their bike numbers, event t-shirts, water bottles and wristbands, and hand in any additional money they have raised. This will help to avoid long lines at registration on Sunday.

Last year, 17 towns in Massachusetts sponsored PMC Kids Rides, and raised over $260,000. Over 2,000 school aged riders participated. The Wilmington ride hopes to match or improve upon last year's fundraising total of $15,500. Proceeds from the PMC Kids Wilmington Ride will benefit the Pan-Massachusetts Challenge, which supports cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through its Jimmy Fund. PMC Kids Rides involve young people in volunteerism and charitable giving, while providing a safe and fun opportunity for them to become involved in the PMC mission.

There is a $15 registration fee and children are welcome to get sponsors and raise additional money on their own. Prizes will be awarded to the top fundraisers. Tax deductible contributions can be made payable to the Pan-Mass Challenge. To register, contact Sue Hendee at s.hendee@comcast.net. Pre-registration for the ride is encouraged. Rams track team pulls off the inevitable

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech boys track team pulled off a historic victory on Monday afternoon at the Tech. The Rams took a major step toward their first CAC title since 1982 with a stunning 101-35 win over 14 time defending league champion Greater Lowell.

The loss was the first in the league for the Gryphons in 15 years, their most recent losses coming in 1992 when they lost a pair of matches to Tyngsboro and Shawsheen. The Rams were denied league title that season due to a loss to Tyngsboro, but after Monday's win, they look to have the title in sight, with only meets against Whittier and Greater Lawrence standing in the way of their first title in 25 years.

With the victory the Rams improved to 6-0 on the season. The win was not only stunning for the fact that the Rams broke the Gryphons 15-year stranglehold on the league, but also because of the ease in which it came. Shawsheen coach Jay Tildsley was very confident in his team headed into the meet, but even he was surprised at the lopsided final.

"I was definitely surprised," Tildsley said. "They came in her last year and beat us by 18 points. They have dominated the league for years and years. I felt we could win, but I never thought it would be by this much."

The Rams got off to a great start in the meet, sweeping the first event of the day in the 300 meter hurdles. Junior Josh DeLisle of Tewksbury led the way with a time of 44.14, followed by Wilmington's Joe Gore and John Allen.

"We swept the first event and right away kind of made a statement," Tildsley said. "It had a huge impact on the whole team." DeLisle continued his outstanding performance later in the meet with a win in the 400 meters in a time of 58.45.

The Rams dominance continued with several more great performances, including a sweep of the High jump, led by Tewksbury's Brandon McCarthy with a leap of 5-4. That was just part of an outstanding day for McCarthy who also finished first in the tripe jump at 37-5.5 and in the 110 meter hurdles in 17.7. He also grabbed a second place finish in the 200 meters in a time of 24.89.

Tri-captain Matt Bruno of Tewksbury also had an outstanding day, winning the mile in 5:00, while Chris Damp of Tewksbury won the 800 in a time of 2:08 and took third in the two mile in 11:55.27.

"We definitely have the inside track to the league title at this point," Tildsley said. "We still have two tough league meets against Whittier and Greater Lawrence, but we have a very good shot at it."

The Rams are also preparing for a non-league match-up on Monday night against Wilmington at 5:00.

"Wilmington has a great team," Tildsley said. "We might not quite be in the same league as they are, but we will give it our best shot. For us it will just be a fun experience under the lights, breaking out of our usual routine. We are really looking forward to it."

The girls team was unable to pull off the victory, but did get several outstanding individual performances in their 76-56 loss.

Abby Pinard of Tewksbury took first place in the two mile with a time of 15:33.34, while also taking second place in the high jump at 4-4.

Meanwhile, Wilmington's Stephanie Warnick grabbed a pair of third place finishes. She scored in the high jump with a leap of 4-0 and also in the 100 meter in 15.1.

Baseball

The Shawsheen Tech baseball team finally tasted defeat for the first time this season last Thursday, suffering a 10-1 loss to CAC rival Whittier. Evidently, the Rams did not like the taste too much, as they bounced back with a vengeance on Monday afternoon at home with a 15-5 rout of another CAC rival, Minuteman, to improve their record on the season to 7-1 overall and 4-1 within the CAC.

The Rams were led on Monday by three home runs, including two by players who hit the first of their high school careers. Rob McIsaac of Wilmington hit a two run blast, while Jack Murphy hit a dinger of his own to achieve their milestones. Anthony Miano of Tewksbury also had a two run homer en route to the victory.

McIsaac also had a good day on the mound, throwing five innings, and allowing four runs (two earned) on five hits, while striking ing out three.

"Rob has been playing well for us," Shawsheen coach Kevin Bloom said. "He has been pitching well and has also been doing a good job for us in the number six spot in the lineup."

Minuteman took a quick 1-0 lead in the top of the first, but the Rams bounced right back to tie it in the bottom of the first, before taking a 2-1 lead in the second. The Rams then broke the game open with six runs in the third, including the home runs by Miano and McIsaac. In between the two home runs was a blistering double by Steve McIsaac that would have been a home run had he not hit it to the deepest part of the ballpark.

Bloom was happy to see his team bounce back after the Whittier loss. The Rams did not play well in the loss, with their only run coming on a solo home run by Tewksbury's Tommy Joyce, but Bloom was able to put the loss into perspective.

"The frustrating part of the Whittier game was that we did not do anything right. We did not hit, pitch or field well," Bloom said. "It was just a matter of getting back on track. If you are going to have a game like that it's better to have it in April."

At 7-1 overall, and 4-1 in the league, at the nearly midpoint of the season, the Rams look to be in good position to make a run at the top of the league, which was the team goal at the start of the year.

"That is where you want to be at this point," Bloom said. "You want to set goals that are realistic and at this point they remain very realistic. But we know that we have to keep playing well and keep improving if we are going to achieve our goals."

Under 13-Boys White

U13 White played another great game of lacrosse this past Sunday at Woburn Street School Field. Matched-up against a strong Melrose U13 team, Wilmington U13 White, led by the outstanding goaltending of Justin DeNorscia, the strong defense of Eric Jaeschke, Gerry O'Reilly, Shawn Khachadourian and Andrew McDonagh kept the Melrose offense at bay all four quarters.

The midfield lines of Mitchell

DeAmbrose. Justin MacKinon, Brendan McDonough, Cody McGowen, Brian Pickett and Connor Ryan worked both ends of the field offensively and defensively, moving and passing the ball well all day to feed and set-up the attack lines of Dan Hope, Ryan Kennedy, Zach Maher, Scott Manganelli and Andrew Morris. Key to the game was the winning of ground balls and clears by the defense and the fast breaks up the field by the middies. In the end, Wilmington moved to a 3 pass before shot play as Wilmington went onto a 11-5 win.

Under 13 Boys Grey

The Wilmington U13 Grey Boys Lacrosse team traveled to Newburyport this past weekend to record score their first win of the year, 13-2.

Strong Goaltending was exhibited by Joe Bolognese who made a number of excellent saves and kept the shutout going into the second half. The defense with Nolan Gaffey, Nick Dirienzo, Steve Parrot, Shane Brennan, Stanley Danciewicz, and Michael Ferrara were strong and effective in minimizing Newburyport's shot selection and scoring opportunities. The Wilmington offense was explosive and the passing attack was excellent.

Goals were made by Brian Priem, Tim Penny, Chris

Newton, Alec Dell'Anno, Dan Luise, Arthur Papastathis, Jay Rossetti, and Brooks Carter. Blake Walker, provided excellent offensive passing in leading to goal assists and Eric Masiello and John Cimeno provided excellent attack offensive support.

Under 15 Boys Blue

Wilmington demonstrated great team effort in an exciting victory over Triton. Leading the scoring was Dan McDougall, who finished the game with a hat trick. Other scorers included Jamie Mara, Trevor Foley, and Eric Dell'Anno with two goals. Coming up strong with assists were Jimmy O'Neill, who moved like lightning on the field, Chris Crupi, who came up big on several face offs, and Jamie Mara.

The strong defense was also a significant factor in this victory. Frankie Mearls made some amazing stops in the net, holding the Triton team to only two goals. To further aid in this effort, there was very aggressive play by defenders Pat Young, Ryan Maskell, Alex Furlong, Andrew Wells and Kevin Barry. Notable hustle was also exhibited on the field by Chris Ryan and Brendan O'Brien. This 7 to 2 victory was certainly facilitated by a combination of great team work and enthusiasm by all players.

Another Wilmington Little League season opens

Saturday, April 21st marked the opening day of baseball for Wilmington Little League. In AAA action, the Pirates hosted the Devil Rays. The game was a well played, contest between both teams. The Devil Rays were led by their two pitchers, Mike Melanson and Tyler Fraser. Both pitchers threw the ball well in their first outing. Leading the Devil Rays with multiple hits were Mike Clark, Pat Brazell, Stan Dancewicz, Simon Nichols and Alex Neville. Helping the Devil Rays on defense was Tommy Townsend, Kevin Foy, Mike Pelosi, Pat MacCorkle and Jacob Dalke.

The Pirates were led by the hitting of Joe Ascolese, Billy O'Connor, Brian Nazzarro, Brendan Healy and John King. Andy Sutton, Kennedy Harper, Matt Daly, Brian Healy and David Souza made things happen on the base paths. Contributing on defense was Peter Warren, Matt Devlin and Matt Donnell. The game was a closely played game, with the Devil Rays taking a 10 - 8 victory.

Dodgers 10, Astros 5

The Astros had contributions from Anthony Marinella who contributed with good base running and heads up play at the plate along with a great catch off a hard hit ball in center field. Joe Cerbone pitched well holding off the Dodgers' advance and contributed on the bases. Steve Doucette and John Malone each assisted with runs.

The Dodgers were strong with Vin Sgross driving in two runs with a double, along with some smart base running. Mike Chiricosta contributed 2 runs, good base running and some well timed hard hits. Dodger pitchers Jim Bonish, Geoffrey MacDonald and Brett Kidik combined to hold off the talents of the Astros as the Dodgers took the game 10-5.

Jr. League

Angels 11, Dodgers 4

Tim McCarthy started on the hill for the Dodgers and struck out two of the first three batters he faced. Dodgers' Jackie Mulrenan, Tim McCarthy and Dan Creedon got the home team offense started and all crossed the plate in the bottom of the first.

The Angels came back in the top of the second to get two back on hits from Dalton Rolli, Zach Gosselin and Matt Ferreira. The game settled down until the top of the fourth when the Angels tacked on another two runs. This would be all they would need as Angel pitcher Derek Duggan would allow just one more run to see his team take the 11-4 win. Notables for the Dodgers were Zach McNally, Nick Cirame and Stephen Petting. The Angel standouts were John Keough, Nick Nearhos and Brian Feindel.

Mets 7, Nationals 5

Trailing 5-2 entering the top of the fifth inning, the Mets rallied for a six run inning to lead them to a 7-5 victory over the Nationals in a Single A game at Glen Rd. Park. The Mets big inning was led by Ryan Donnell who contributed a key two-run double. Brendan O'Flaherty also added a single in the inning, one of his two hits on the day, while the other Mets batters took advantage of some control problems by the Nationals pitching to contribute to the rally. Once the Mets gained the lead, they held it thanks to the fine pitching of Brendan O'Flaherty who held the Nationals scoreless for the final two innings.

Jack Kildae also contributed a hit for the Mets, while Ryan Donnell (also two scoreless innings) and Nick Russo pitched as well. Ryan Donnell also played some fine defense on the mound for the Mets.

The Nationals offense was led by Ryan Flood and Charlie Menghella who had three and two hits respectively. Joey Hydorn and Patrick Carroll added back to back doubles to account for a run, and Mathew Leiskau capped off the Nationals attack with a base hit.

The Nationals pitching was paced by Kyle Callahan who pitched two scoreless innings, and Kevin Cummings and Ryan Flood who pitched one scoreless inning each. Patrick Carroll, Lucas Garrity and Joey Hydorn also pitched for the Nationals.

plete in local tournaments throughout New England. Amanda plays in the Setter position, while Adele plays in the Middle Hitter position. There are seven other girls on the team, which is coached by Ray Dyer of North Reading.

The Pumas Kryptonite team has won all four of their local tournaments this season, competing against teams based in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine. On March 4th, Kryptonite won their first tournament, while participating in the 15B Division.

As a result of this win, they advanced to the 15A division and have won their next three tournaments. In each of the

Michael Capistran made two fine plays in the field for the Nationals, including an unassisted double play and a nice catch on a Nick Russo fly ball to left field.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 4

The Cardinals posted two runs in the top of first inning as Zach Reed and Rob Fisher crossed the plate. The Dodgers came right back in the bottom of the inning with a single run on a heads up play by Dan Creedon. The first inning would set the tone for the game as both teams played excellent defense. The game was tight right to the end when the Dodgers loaded up the bases in the bottom of the seventh but were not able to score.

The Cardinals took the first meeting of these two teams by a score of 5-4. Outstanding players for the Cardinals were Nick Luise, Dan Pothier, Tom See and Kyle Albanese. Standouts for the Dodgers were Jackie Mulrenan (2-3), Nick Cirame (2-3), Dan Creedon and Mike Mullens.

Phillies top Devil Rays

The Phils got great pitching from Charlene Sullivan and Caitlin Cheney. Sullivan gave up only three hits and three walks while striking out six. Cheney came on in the 4th inning and allowed only three Devil Rays to reach base the rest of the game.

The Phillies offense was led by Holly Niemiec with three runs scored, a two-run double, and three RBI's. Sullivan and Cheney helped their cause with a hit each. Other Phillie hits belonged to Jackie Kennedy, Megan Priem, Jenn Sferazza, Kelley Griffin, and Katherine McKenna.

Casey Murray, Katie MacDougall, Cassie Lee, and Jackie Duffy all had hits for the Devil Rays, with MacDougall scoring twice. There were nice defensive plays by Duffy at third base, hustling after a foul ball to get the out and by MacDougall on the mound as she alertly grabbed a scorching liner by Kennedy. Phillie second baseman, Samantha Depasquale, had an unassisted force play in the fourth inning.

Softball

Major League

Reds vs Devil Rays

The Reds offense was led by Katie Blanche, Michelle Woods and Gabby Polcari who each scored three times. Alexa Derrian and Kelly Gormley each had two hits. Great pitching by Sara Pudvelis and LisaMarie DiOrio (both making their first pitching appearances) and solid defense by Megan Howland at shortstop, Shannon Wilcox at first base, Lizzy Hill at second base, Kelly Cassidy catching (with two put outs at the plate), Stephanie Tran at third base, and Erin Duffy in the infield and outfield helped seal the victory.

For the Devil Rays, Kellie MacDougall pitched well, and their offense was lead by Jackie Duffy, Christina Riley and Casey MacDonald who each scored twice. Casey Murray, Cassie Lee, Katie McDougall, Jacqueline Parece, Taylor Higgins, Kelly Valletta, Jenna Domek and Gabby Perrino all had hits. Ryan Cahill hit a three-run triple.

Pirates 19, Phillies 18

The Pirates and Phillies didn't let a little rain spoil their night as they battled back and forth before the Pirates edged the Phillies, 19-18. There were seven lead changes in the game before the Pirates were able to pull it out. In the home half of the final inning, the Phillies scored three runs to come within one. With two outs and the bases loaded, the Pirates got the out they needed and went on to win the game. Heather Benson and Rachel McLaren toed the rubber for the Pirates and Caitlin Cheney and Hannah Kirby manned the mound for the Phillies. Rebecca McLaren and Hannah Judkins each had a couple of hits for Pirates.

The Phillies' Megan Priem was an offensive force as she reached base four times and drove in four runs, including ripping a triple with the bases loaded in the third inning. Cheney was perfect on the night as she went 3-for-3. Charlene Sullivan picked up two hits and scored three runs. Other Phillie hits belonged to Kirby, Kelley Griffin, and Katherine McKenna.

The Phillies were thankful to Nicole Rose and Hannah Griffin for coming up from the minors to keep the shorthanded team from forfeiting. The Pirate defense helped them pull out the victory as there were several nice plays in the infield in the final inning. Benson went behind the plate late in the game and saved several runs with some fine stops.

Joe Leto lets his art do the talking

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Woburn resident Joseph Leto, Jr. is a humble person who usually lets his artwork do the talking for him. Although he loves to tell stories, they are usually about the people who have affected his life and not about Leto himself.

Through his chosen profession as a professional photographer in the fields of advertising, medicine and public relations Leto has met many well known people.

These include former New Hampshire Governor John Sununu, the family of the late astronaut Christa McAuliffe, Bobby Orr and for a year was the official photographer for the New England Patriots Cheerleaders.

However, photography is only a part of the Leto story, which also includes a love of music and participation in many social, civic and professional organizations. However, his avocation and the focus of his life now are his paintings and drawings.

"I am happy that someone is doing a story on me," Leto humbly said at the end of his interview. It shows that people are accepting me for my artwork."

Leto, a director and past president of both the Reading Art Association and the Woburn Guild of Artists, was recently honored by the Guild as the Member Profile in their newsletter. He has been a member of both organizations for a little over seven years.

Leto joined both organizations in a round about fashion. After meeting the woman who would become his wife, Gina Marie (Catanzano), he moved to Woburn and lived with her family. (They now have two daughters, Laini, 25, the head of the Graphics Department at the Boston University Alumni Association, and Alissa Jeanette, a student at Salem State College.)

He started reading the Daily Times Chronicle and would see notices about the Guild. At the time Leto did not pursue joining it but it was always in the back of his mind.

AS a photographer, Leto was a member of several photographic associations and had become a Certified Professional Photographer. Along the way he had earned several credits toward his Masters in Photography through the Professional Photographers Association.

"I had learned that when you join a professional association your learning curve goes up," Leto said.

For this reason he started thinking again about joining the Guild and one day he was buying art supplies at the Artists Shop in Reading and stopped to ask the owner if there was a contact for the Guild. The owner put him in touch with Leo Lambert, the treasurer of the Reading Art Association. Lambert came to visit with Leto and talk about the Association and after joining Leto asked Lambert if he knew anything about the Guild.

Leto recalled, "Lambert said 'this is your lucky day, I just happen to be the treasurer of the Guild as well.'"

Leo has been painting since he was three years-old, according to a story his mother tells. She tells people that one day he looked out the window and saw a bird and then drew a picture of the winged creature that

LETO, WHO HAS BEEN PAINTING SINCE HE WAS THREE, wants his art work to tell a story. He believes that a person studying a piece of art in a gallery or museum should be able to spend at least five minutes looking at the piece and come away knowing what the artist was saying. A good example of this is Leto's charcoal "Annabel," at left, his rendition of Edgar Allen Poe's first love and the subject of one of the poet's works, Annabel Lee. (see poem on page S-6) Above, in an oil piece he calls Allegory 200, he uses symbolism to show that life is still going on in what might seem to be a still life.

Movie Reviews by Paul Feely

"Next" not quite nuclear

NEXT JULIANNE MOORE AS CALLIE FERRIS AND NICOLAS CAGE as Cris Johnson star in a supernatural thriller about a man with the ability to see the future and change the outcome of events before they occur is forced to choose between saving himself and saving the world.

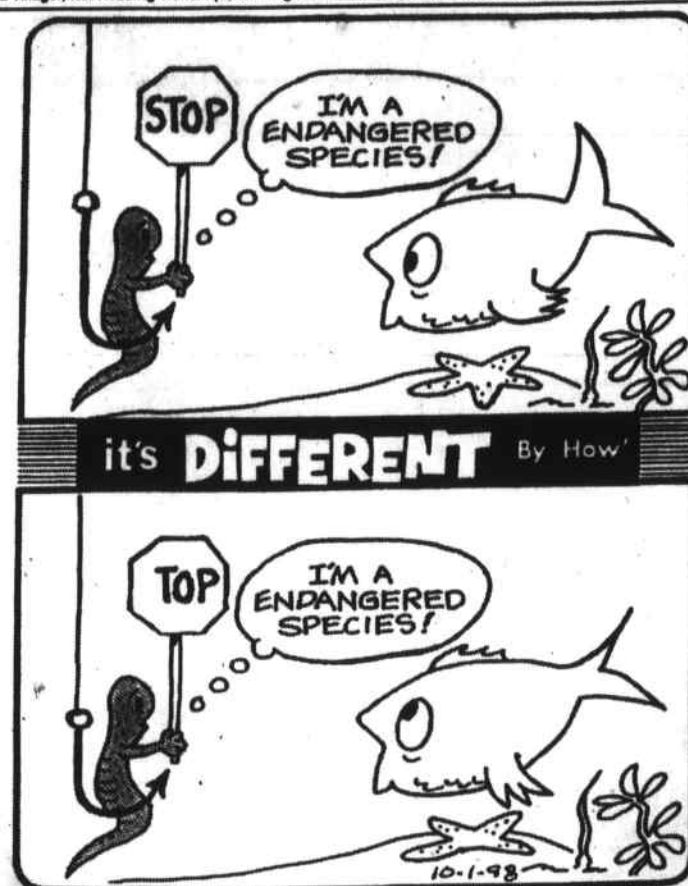

"NEXT"
GRADE: **

In "Next," Nicolas Cage plays a small-time magician who can see into the future. If this reviewer had the same powers, perhaps he would have picked a different movie to see this weekend.

The plot of "Next" is as such - a nuclear device has been stolen and hidden by terrorists, and FBI agent Callie Ferris (Julianne Moore) is convinced the only hope of finding out its location rests with Vegas showman Chris Johnson (Cage). Johnson has the gift of knowing what's going to happen two minutes ahead of time, but Ferris thinks he might be capable of seeing even further ahead.

For unexplained reasons, every time Johnson is around a particular beautiful woman (Jessica Biel), his powers grow in magnitude. So if Ferris can get Johnson to think about his lady love while watching a cable news network, it stands to reason that he'll be able to flash-forward a few hours and foretell what the bad guys will do.

The last five minutes of this movie may be billed as a huge twist by the producers,

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?
Eye, Starfish, Sawed, Fish, Sign, Fish, Hook

but it comes off as being more of a slap in the face, a smirk at you when you slowly come to the realization that the money spent on the ticket could just as easily have been lit on fire and disposed of that way. At least in that case, you would still have 96 minutes of your life back to do other things with.

Cage performs as if he's on autopilot, Moore looks miserable, and Biel seems fully aware she was hired only to provide a few glimpses of onscreen beauty.

Gifts that keep on giving in Wakefield

"The staff of Wakefield's Lucius Beebe Memorial Library have extended their thanks to all of the town's citizens and organizations who have come forward to show their support for the library's gift magazine program," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"To date, the Beebe Library has received more than fifty magazine subscriptions for the coming year from a total of 39 individuals and organizations."

"Among the organizations that took part in the program was the Backyard Gardeners Club, the Crystal Garden Club, the Friends of Lake Quannapowitt, the Wakefield Garden Club, and the Wakefield Junior Women's Club."

"Individual contributors include the Badolato family, Julie Bernardin, Afshin Bozorgzadeh, Lorraine Breithaupt, Frank Conte, Elizabeth Cooper, Ellen and Walter Creedon, Julie Dickenson, Marilyn Dodge, Ann Gerweck, Michael Giannattasio, Christopher Hartman, Mary Lally, the Lyons family, Gene Moulton, Gregory and Tatyana Nakhimovsky, George Pedersen, the Ramsdell family, Helen Simmons, Lucy Skeldon, Deborah Ulrich, Nancy Ulrich, Peter and Fay Vale, Leonard Wenyon, Laura White, Charlotte Wood, the Wulff family, Gerald Zingariello and Pat

Zingariello.

"Beebe Library supporters took part in the program by donating magazine subscriptions for an array of publications which cover a vast variety of topics. Some of the donated magazine subscriptions that were received this year included American Heritage, Cooking Light, The Economist, Fine Gardening, Natural New England, Old House Journal, Science, Sports Illustrated for Kids, and Writer's Digest...."

Fame in Reading

"The Friends of Reading Tennis Task Force (FFRTF) discovered a treasure right here in Reading," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"During a house party held to raise funds to reconstruct the public tennis facility at the Birch Meadow Athletic Complex, a guest mentioned a Mr. Russ Adams. Mr. Adams and his wife, Betty, have lived in Reading since 1955. They raised a son here. This July, Mr. Adams will be inducted into the International Tennis Hall of Fame in Newport, RI. Elected as a contributor, Mr. Adams is considered the 'Dean' of tennis photography."

He is tennis' best-known photographer and his work has documented great moments from the Grand Slam tournaments, the Fed Cup, Davis Cup, and two Olympics.

"Lorraine Salter is the President of FRTTF. She plans to attend the Induction Ceremony as a special event not to be missed. When she learned that Mr. Adams was a resident of Reading, she lost no time in picking up the phone and congratulating him. He, in turn, demonstrated his support for the FRTTF cause by loaning a gallery of his tennis photographs to create a special ambience at their fundraisers. Those of you who attended the Texas Hold 'Em Poker Night at the Reading Masonic Hall were treated to shots of some of the world's most famous tennis players, Chris Evert, Martina Navratilova, Jimmy Connors, Bjorn Borg, Arthur Ashe, Andre Agassi, Steffi Graf, Rod Laver, John McEnroe, Billie Jean King. I could go on and on. Mr. Adams considers many of these players among his personal friends."

"Russ Adams was born in 1930 in Worcester, MA. He grew up in the nearby town of Spencer. In 1944, the Worcester Telegram had lost so many photographers to the armed services, a reporter enlisted 14-year-old Russ to take pictures for them. He became the 'County Man' for his hometown Spencer, and surrounding communities. In 1950 he moved to Boston and became the office boy that ran the photography lab at the Boston Herald. This was short-lived as he joined the Air Force and moved to Texas to serve with the Strategic Air Command. There he met and married his wife, Betty...."

Heroes in Winchester

"In the history of our nation, many sons have followed in the footsteps of their fathers, serving in the military during successive conflicts," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"One such pair in Winchester included the heroic figures of Commodore William F. Spicer, a veteran of the Civil War, and his son William F., Jr., a participant in the Spanish-American War."

"Commodore William F. Spicer (1820-1878), a native of New York, entered the Navy in 1839 and rose through the ranks from midshipman to commodore. He arrived in Winchester shortly before 1860 as Lieutenant Spicer."

"Prior to the Civil War, Spicer had a varied career, sailing to the west coast of Africa, the Mediterranean, the Orient, and the Danish West Indies, where he met his wife, Emily Louisa Kierulff. Their children were born in the West Indies, Italy, and Massachusetts, including Winchester. They established a home in Winchester while Spicer was stationed at the Charlestown Navy Yard."

"Spicer was reportedly a man of excellent qualities and generous impulses. He also had a musical bent. During his youthful years in the Navy, he composed many popular ballads, among which were 'Absent Friends and you, Mary,' 'The Gale,' 'All Hands, Up Anchor,' 'Off Sicily's Isles,' 'The Date of '39,' and 'The Last Voyage....'"

"Twenty years after Commodore Spicer's death, enmity between Spain and the United States, provoked by the explosion of the Maine at anchor in Havana Harbor on Feb. 15, 1898 and other causes, escalated to the point that war was declared that April."

"All of Spicer's sons contributed to the war effort in some manner, with his namesake, William F. Spicer, Jr. (1851-1920) distinguishing himself at Guantanamo Bay."

"Born in the West Indies, this Spicer lived a few years in Italy, but essentially grew up in Winchester. Reportedly, he had 'always been a marine since he was old enough to carry a cutlass....'"

"FRACTURE"
GRADE: ***

"Fracture" pits young actor Ryan Gosling against veteran screen presence Anthony Hopkins in a tense cat-and-mouse courtroom drama.

It's not a whodunit, as Hopkins' character, Ted Crawford, a multimillionaire aeronautical engineer, clearly had the means, motive and opportunity to kill his cheating wife. It looks like an open-and-shut case. But Gosling, as assistant Los Angeles district attorney Willy Beachum, faces a huge hurdle the murder weapon can't be found.

Acting as his own lawyer, Crawford humiliates the cocky Beachum, who anticipated ending his prosecutorial career with a high-profile conviction before accepting a plum job at a powerful law firm. With both the D.A. (David Straithairn) and his potential employer second-guessing his work, Beachum pursues every available lead to bring Crawford to justice. But the older man remains mockingly out of reach.

The cast is great. Gosling holds his own, while Hopkins' relationship with his opponent echoes Hannibal Lecter's conversations with Clarice Starling, but Hopkins gives the character a distinctive personality.

With powerful acting, a tight plot, and plenty of twists, "Fracture" is solid entertainment.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

NEWS FROM ON HIGH

Mission accomplished in Woburn

"Ashley Walters, a senior at Woburn Memorial High School and a student in Mrs. Thifault's computer graphics class recently designed the crest for Woburn Memorial High School," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"She designed the crest on the software Adobe Illustrator. The school crest will be used on the program of studies cover and for the upcoming accreditation visit in the Fall of 2007."

"Ashley explains that reasoning for the icons located on the crest are as follows:

"Academic expectations are represented by the lamp of knowledge and a book.

"Social expectations are represented by two hands joined in a handshake, symbolizing understanding and respect.

"Civic expectations are represented by the Woburn Public Library symbol from the city crest, symbolizing a responsibility to the community.

"Tanner Pride' is our school motto and represents the whole school community.

"The crest embodies our school mission statement...."

On a mission in Lynnfield

Administrators from three of Lynnfield's public schools made presentations at the School Committee meeting detailing their progress on their school's goals for the 2006-2007 school year," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"Making presentations were principals Jane Tremblay of the Summer Street School, Stephen R. Ralston of the middle school and Bill Hassett of the high school....

"From the high school, Hassett offered a detailed assessment of the progress his administration has made on its goals for the current school year. With the year just past its halfway point, Hassett believes the school has made good progress toward their realization.

"The most important of the goals for the high school administration this year was preparation for the MCAS science requirement. The current freshmen class will be the first required to pass a science exam to graduate. This requirement can be met in either biology, chemistry, physics or technology/engineering.

"At the high school, the MCAS results are carefully reviewed by the department heads," said Hassett. "What the kids did right or wrong is conveyed to the members of the department."

"Using data from pilot exams, it has become the school's goal to have its students pass the requirement by taking the biology exam. The Pilot exams will be given to sophomores this year to continue data collection.

"The elective options available to students consume two of the school's goals this year. One of the goals was to conduct surveys to assess interest in alternative foreign languages and a second was an exploratory investigation into expanding offered electives to students.

"This foreign language survey has been completed, with results from 502 students indicating a strong interest in Italian. As a result of the high interest level, the school intends to continue to explore the possibility of offering that language to students.

"As for an increase in electives for the next school year, Hassett has indicated this will not occur...."

Titan magic in Tewksbury

"In 2003, one ambitious senior, Russ Morin, founded a robotics team at Tewksbury Memorial High School," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"Now, four years later, the Tewksbury Titans have expanded their club to one of the largest groups in the school.

"The Robotics club is part of an international organization initiated by Dean Kamen, a mechanical engineer who has provided much inspiration with his many inventions, such as the Segway scooter and the diabetes pump. The program is now thirteen years old, making Tewksbury High School a fairly recent addition. The Titans originally joined forces with Raytheon, a technical engineering company who granted them $12,000 and many professional mentors. The Titans have now grown into a club with over 35 members, 23 of which are graduating seniors this year.

"The Titan's relationship with Raytheon is one filled with much gratitude. The team considers them their 'founder' and although financial issues were a little shaky for both Raytheon and the Titans in the beginning of the school year due to conflicts within the company, Raytheon 'pulled through' in the end, and supported the team with a helpful sum of financial aid.

"Their biggest help so far has been the incredible mentors," said TMS senior Ben Judge, Vice President and member of the mechanical team. "We've worked with their professional engineers who have helped us so much with our projects and have

FELLS SPECIES ERADICATION DAYS

Fells Invasive Species Eradication Day will be held on Sunday May 20 at 11 a.m.

The presence of non-native, invasive plants is a serious threat to the diversity of the Fells' ecosystem. Invasives crowd out the native plants needed by native wildlife for food and shelter, reducing biodiversity when fewer native plants and insects can feed on the non-native invasive plants. If nothing is done to control invasive plants now, the biodiversity of the Fells will decline.

DCR Park Ranger Pete Luongo will lead these expeditions into the Fells to help identify these plants, such as garlic mustard, knotweed and bitter-sweet and demonstrate the best methods of eradication for each invasive species. Hand pulling or cutting are the preferred control techniques. Please dress for the weather.

Meet at the Botume House Visitors Center, 4 Woodland Road, Stoneham, on either or both dates at 11 a.m. For more information call Ranger Pete Luongo at 617-727-1199, ext. 212 or email himat@mailto:peterluongo@state.ma.us.

Quality Service For Over 35 Years!!

Woburn artist, photographer

was very lifelike.

On another occasion, Leto amazed his mother by drawing a picture of his grandmother. According to the story his mother called the older woman and told her of the picture.

As the story goes, the grandmother thought it was nice but dismissed it as a drawing of a young person. However, Leto's mother then went on to explain that the picture actually looked like the older woman.

Since that time, Leto has attended the Museum of Fine Arts School and has a degree from the Art Institute of Boston (now a part of Leslie University).

"I learned a lot when I went there (the Art Institute)," Leto said. "I learned more there than I did at the Museum School."

"My father gave me the passion for art," Leto said. "He was a sign painter at Suffolk Downs for years. My mother was a clothes designer and dabbled in art."

Leto describes his style as that of the "Classical Realists in the Boston School. It is a style that includes such artists as Sergeant, Winslow Homer, Whistler and William Paxton. Leto notes that Paxton is responsible for keeping the style going when it started to die out.

According to Leto, the Boston School embraces many different styles and disciplines in painting; they take some pieces from abstract artists, some from Classical artists. In his demonstrations and seminars Leto teaches, "Art is like a circle and the more spokes you learn the stronger you are."

In the Boston School the spokes include; color, composition, facets of abstract art, impressionistic art, and realism.

Leto explained that before painting he will look at a subject and decide what it is he will focus on. It could be the eyes or the action the subject is taking.

"I am going to tell the people where to look," Leto said of his finished pieces.

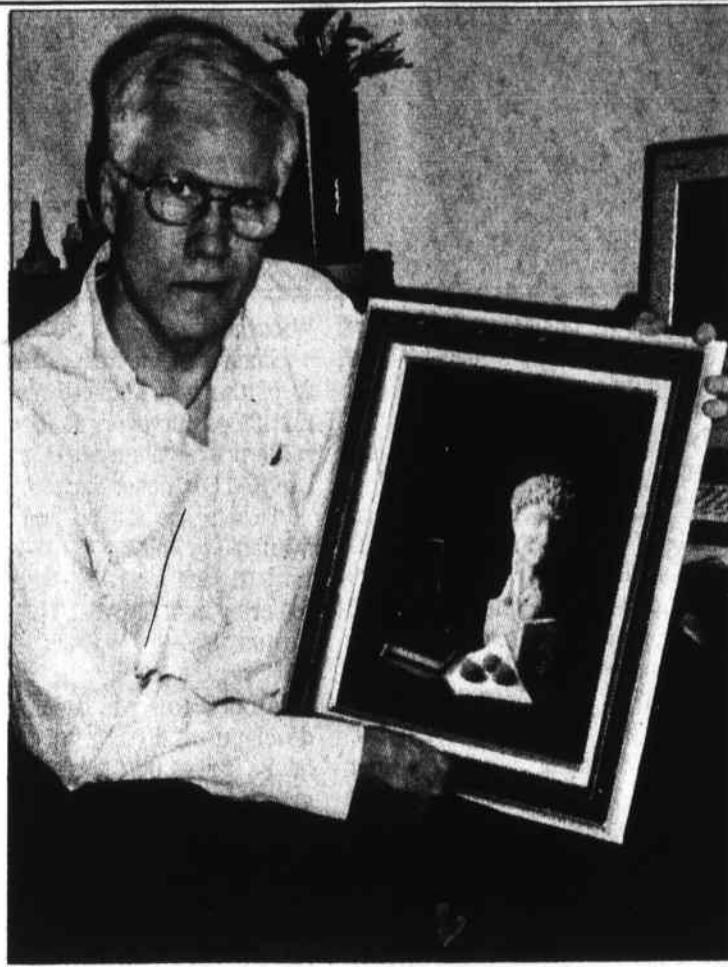

Most importantly, he wants his art work to tell a story. He believes that a person studying a piece of art in a gallery or museum should be able to spend at least five minutes looking at the piece and come away knowing what the artist was saying.

He added, "The best artists are allegorical painters. They tell a story."

A good example of this is Leto's charcoal "Annabel." It is his rendition of Edgar Allan Poe's first love and the subject of one of the poet's works, Annabel Lee.

In the drawing Leto has used the shading and lighting to make the young girls eyes the first thing that the viewer is drawn to. The tragedy in the eyes of one so young is very compelling.

In another piece that Leto calls Allegory 200, he uses symbolism to show that life is still going on in what might seem to be a still life. The tell tale signs are in the details such as a bookmark showing that the closed book is not finished and the way the eyes in a burst are looking off the page to see what else lies ahead.

Although known as the Boston School, the style, according to Leto, is now known and followed throughout the world. It is also known for being the longest running "school" in history.

Over the years Leto has won many ribbons and awards for his photography. However, he is just getting around to entering some of his artwork into juried competition.

He has not sold any of his pieces, choosing for the most part to give them to his subjects or friends and family. However, in some cases he has been able to barter his artwork for services rendered.

Tragically Leto has developed a degenerative optical nerve condition that has caused him to lose enough eyesight to give up photography. He is working furiously on his artwork now before the condition gets any worse.

In the meantime he is a student of history and is a member of the Woburn Historical Commission and the Woburn Historical Society as well as the Woburn Cultural Council and WREN. Leto is also in the midst of writing a book about his life experience, if not about himself, then the people that he has met.

Minimizing seasonal and mite-related allergies

Every season has its causes for sneezing and allergy triggers, but some have more than their fair share.

According to the American College of Allergy, Asthma and Immunology, dust mite populations tend to increase during the months of July and August.

There is also evidence that cockroaches have a seasonal pattern, peaking in the late summer. Even mold levels tend to peak during warmer months, depending on the climate.

All of these substances are present in household dust particles. A speck of dust may contain animal dander, dust mites, mold spores, bacteria, food particles and other debris.

House dust and dust mite allergies are widespread and the dust is just the right size to be inhaled. Dust mites are found in highest concentrations in pillows, mattresses, carpeting and upholstered items. They are recirculated into the air when one walks on a carpet or disturbs bedding, but they settle out of the air once the disturbance has ceased.

To reduce the presence of dust mites in your home, you can cover your pillows and mattresses with plastic liners, wash bedding in hot water, wash curtains, area rugs frequently, don't allow pets in the bedroom, vacuum regularly and improve ventilation.

Keeping the humidity level below 60 percent will reduce dust mite populations since they prefer a moist environment.

Dehumidify indoor air and use a portable air cleaner to filter dust particles.

The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers has developed the CADR certification program for air cleaners to help homeowners select the right air cleaner.

Clean Air Delivery Rates or CADR is listed, along with recommended room size, on all products bearing a CADR seal.

CADR-rated room air cleaners remove tobacco smoke particles as small as one-tenth of a micron and dust and pollen particles much smaller than one micron, which is smaller than the period ending this sentence.

To help you to select the best air cleaner for your home, call 1-800-267-3138.

To download a directory of all certified room air cleaners, purchase replacement filters and check the daily pollen count in your area, visit www.cadr.org

Annabel Lee by Edgar Allan Poe, 1849

It was many and many a year ago,
In a kingdom by the sea,
That a maiden there lived whom you may know
By the name of ANNABEL LEE;
And this maiden she lived with no other thought
Than to love and be loved by me.

I was a child and she was a child,
In this kingdom by the sea;
But we loved with a love that was more than love-
I and my Annabel Lee;
With a love that the winged seraphs of heaven
Coveted her and me.

And this was the reason that, long ago,
In this kingdom by the sea,
A wind blew out of a cloud, chilling
My beautiful Annabel Lee;
So that her highborn kinsman came
And bore her away from me,
To shut her up in a sepulchre
In this kingdom by the sea.

The angels, not half so happy in heaven,
Went envying her and me-
Yes! that was the reason (as all men know,
In this kingdom by the sea)
That the wind came out of the cloud by night,
Chilling and killing my Annabel Lee.

But our love it was stronger by far than the love
Of those who were older than we-
Of many far wiser than we-
And neither the angels in heaven above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,
Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee.

For the moon never beams without bringing me dreams
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee;
And the stars never rise but I feel the bright eyes
Of the beautiful Annabel Lee;
And so, all the night-tide, I lie down by the side
Of my darling - my darling - my life and my bride,
In the sepulchre there by the sea,
In her tomb by the sounding sea.

CORNELL FILMS AT PEABODY ESSEX MUSEUM
On May 3 the Peabody Essex Museum presents Joseph Cornell as Filmmaker, an exciting evening of modern art and film by one of the 20th century's most influential artists

These rarely seen films will be screened in conjunction with the exhibition Joseph Cornell: Navigating the Imagination, which opens April 28, providing visitors the opportunity to experience a wide range of the artist's work. The 75-minute program offers a cross section of the two dozen short films Cornell made between the mid-1930s and the late 1950s, including collaborations with avant-garde filmmakers Stan Brakhage and Rudy Burckhardt. PEM Chief Curator and Cornell expert, Lynda Artigan introduces the films and holds a question and answer period afterward.

The Peabody Essex Museum will offer extended evening hours from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. to give film goers the chance to visit the Cornell exhibition before the screenings. The Atrium cafe will be open until 7:30 p.m. for light meals and refreshments.

Entry to the films and the Cornell galleries is free and open to the public. Film reservations are recommended. Please call 978-745-9500, ext 3011 to reserve.

If you are considering a move to an independent or assisted living community or have a loved one in need of skilled care...
it's time for a legal checkup.

➤ If you or your spouse has had a change in physical or mental condition, you should learn about the many programs and services that are available to you whether you want to remain in your home or are considering a move to an independent or assisted living community.

➤ If your Power of Attorney is not durable, it is not sufficient. If you have a Durable Power of Attorney, but it is only a few pages long, it is probably not sufficient for many common issues that elders face.

➤ If you and your spouse have "sweetheart" Wills (each of you leaves everything to your beloved spouse...), consider drafting new Wills which could protect your assets if one of you requires nursing home care.

Exercise greater control over your future by

Annual Avon Walk for Breast Cancer set for May 19 and 20

-Local team to host fundraiser
on May 4

WAKEFIELD - The annual Avon Walk for Breast Cancer is scheduled to take place on May 19 and 20 in Boston and for two days and 39 miles, thousands of women and men from local communities will join forces to walk and raise money for the fight against breast cancer.

One group of friends decided to add to their fundraising effort by hosting a fundraiser that will offer an inexpensive, fun night out with food, music and raffles.

The raffles consist of gift certificates donated from local businesses in their community.

"We want everyone to have a fun night out, while also knowing the money they spend will be donated to this worthwhile cause," explained
Lynnfield resident Robin Tiro-Kinnon.

"When we first decided to do this, we were not sure what to expect. But most businesses we talk to have been touched in some way by this disease and appreciate our efforts. Their generous donations are coming from the heart," Robin added.

The gift certificates range from children's birthday party package for thirty to beauty salons, restaurants, jewelry, house cleaning service, private tutoring, professional teeth whitening, to Red Sox tickets, sports memorabilias, and much more.

All gift certificates will be raffled off on the night of the fundraiser, which will take place on Friday evening, May 4, at the Wakefield Elks, located on Bay State Road in Wakefield. The May 4 fundraiser will take place from 7:00 p.m. through 12:00 midnight.

To support Chickie's Team
- one of the many teams that will walk in the two-day walk
- purchase tickets to the May 4 event by calling 781-354-4075 or send an e-mail to donnamar

Big, bright Macon has handsome façade

By Associated Designs

The Macon is a visual delight.
Half-timbers accent a vaulted porch, nicely set off by the stone veneer next to it. The porch, in turn, frames an impressive entry flanked by sidelights and crowned with a fanlight.
Curved trim boards and varied window treatments add to the viewing pleasure.

The vaulted dining room and sunken living room are richly windowed. In the living room, wide shelves and cabinets fill the walls beside a fireplace fueled by wood or gas. Three more fanlights cap the French doors and multipaned windows in this elegant, high-ceilinged space.

Fully open to the kitchen, the guest/hobby room are just steps away. Natural light washes over the desk nestled into the window bay, creating a great spot for sewing or other crafts.

An even wider bay window expands the Macon's palatial owners' suite.

Local residents inducted into Austin Preparatory School's National Honor Society

Twenty-nine students at Austin Preparatory School were recently inducted into the school's chapter of the National Honor Society. The sophomore, junior and senior inductees were chosen by a panel of Austin faculty and administration.

They were chosen because of their scholarship, leadership, service, and character, the pillars of the National Honor Society. Specifically, students maintain a 3.3 (B+) minimum grade point average, demonstrate leadership and involvement in the school community, volunteer and provide dependable assistance to others, and exemplify fine character.

Gerard Wilson, a 1973 graduate of Austin, was the key note speaker for the ceremony.

Wilson, Chief Information Officer for RSA Security, told the students not to worry if they weren't sure what they were going to do with their lives after high school. He told them,
"Life has a way of presenting opportunities to you, and at the ripe old age of sixteen or seventeen, you just aren't able to know what they are. So don't worry about not knowing what the future holds for you, because those opportunities will come to you." Wilson also encouraged the inductees to pursue many different opportunities, not just the ones they think they might enjoy and easily succeed in.

Local National Honor Society inductees included:
